Committees Could Not Finish Work Till Friday, Says U. P. Chairman, Answering Criticisms of "Secrecy"

NO ACTION THIS YEAR; DELAY TO '14 FAVORED

Fullest Consideration Urged Upon All Members of U. P. and U. S. (Southern) Assemblies, the Parties to It

Saturday morning the proposed "basis of union," reported by joint committees to the United Presbyterian and the U. S. (southern) Presbyterian assemblies, became public.

It was read in both assemblies late in the forenoon, almost simultaneously.

No action was taken upon it.

In the United Presbyterian assembly, its own "basis of union" committee recommended that action be postponed upon matter until the 1914 general assembly, in order that a year of the fullest opportunity may be given to its consideration throughout the church. The committee recommended further that all the religious press of the Presbyterian church print the basis in full and give it the widest publicity.

A remarkable and spontaneous demonstration greeted the reading of the report and the remarks of the committee chairman in the United Presbyterian assembly in the Central Presbyterian church.

The assembly sprang t oits feet and as one man broke into song—he U. P. doxology—

"Now blessed be Jehovah, God
The God of Israel,
Who only doeth wondrous works
In glory tha excels."

The recommendation was adopted, deferring action for a year, and the assembly then prayed over the report.

The U. S. (southern) assembly adoped its own committee's recommendation deferring action for a year.

That the report was not ready until Friday afternoon was the statement of Dr. J. K. McCluckin, chairman of the U. P. assembly's committee. This answered the numerous criticisms which have been directed against the committee from members of both branches of the church, for having revealed nothing concerning the basis of union. It was impossible to get the committees together until Friday to finish their report, said Dr. McClurkin.

The committee rendering the report were as follows:

General chairman, Dr. J. K. McClurkin, Pittsburg, Pa., of the United Presbyterian assembly.

From the United States (southern) assembly: Dr. J. C. Reed, Columbia, S. C.; Dr. John F. Kennon, St. Louis; Dr. S. L. Morris, Atlanta.

From the United Presbyterian assembly: Dr. W. C. Williamson, Clarinda, Iowa; Dr. J. C. Scouller, Philadelphia; T. S. McMurray, Denver.

TEXT OF REPORT.

Following is the report in full:

Believing in the essential oneness of the church of Christ, remembering the historic lines that bind us to revered ancestors who witnessed valiantly for the truth as it is in Jesus and through whom has come to us a common heritage of Christian faith and doctrine; desiring to prove faithful in the custodianship of this inheritance, and aiming only for the glory of God in the higher advancement and wider extension of His kingdom upon earth, we, the members of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, do find a common standing ground in the following statements, and upon the basis of these fundamental truths we covenant to join our ecclesiastical bodies in organic unity.

The doctrinal standards now held in common by these two churches, viz., the Westminster Confession of Faith, the Larger and Shorter Catechisms, shall be the doctrinal standards of the united church.

The standards are to be interpreted in their natural and obvious meaning, and no one shall be authorized to teach or preach in the united church who cannot give an unqualified assent to the doctrinal system contained in these standards.

The united church would bear em-

"I WILL NOT SQUEAL," SAYS WYLIE SMITH, SHOULDERING BLAME

Man Who Comes Back After Two Years to Face Charges Declares He Will Prove His Innocence

STORY OF HIS FLIGHT AND EXPERIENCE AS A REBEL

He Tells of His Meeting With Rojas and Describes Some Stirring Battles in Which He Proved Himself a Fighter

J. Wylie Smith, hunted by Pinkertons and police for two years following the wrecking of the Commercial Loan and Discount company, of which he was president, two years ago, has himself dispelled the mystery which has surrounded his sensational flight from this city and, later, his effective efforts to prevent extradition from Mexico.

Lying on a bed in the hospital ward at the Tower, weak, emaciated almost beyond recognition, with a battered meerschaum pipe—his "best friend"— between his teeth, Friday night he recounted to The Journal his experiences as a revolutionist in Mexico and told of his part in the big battles of the Latin-American republic which are long since history. He told how he, an American, fought shoulder to shoulder with little Spanish-speaking brown men; how he later commanded a company of the same chattering soldiers and, lastly, how he became a member of the staff of General Rojas and helped map out campaigns and plan battles. He told of days without food and nights without sleep; of his wound, which has never healed because he was treated by an incompetent doctor. And, lastly, he told why he came back.

"I returned to Atlanta because I wanted to," he said, as he propped his head up on his hand. "The Pinkertons, the police, even the United States government, couldn't have brought me back. I defied them all for two years, and returned when I thought I was going to die. I wanted my bones to rest in American soil when my lights went out. Human life is held cheaply in Mexico. In a land where no one dies a natural death, where all lives end in violence, human life is valued too low, and there is no respect for a corpse. I saw pictures of my bleached bones on a mountain pass. And my soul revolted."

"I AM NO CROOK."

Then J. Wylie Smith went further and told what he intends to do while here.

"First of all," he said, with a touch of his old-time vigor, "I am going to show my friends and the people who trusted me that I am no crook. I am going to prove my innocence.

"There will be no squealing! I shoulder all blame for the failing of the Commercial Loan and Discount company. If anybody expects any sensational disclosures from me they will wait in vain.

"First and last I want it understood that I was alone. But let me tell you this—if there was another I would never incriminate him. I have seen too much of life to draw another into trouble. If I have to pay, I have to pay.

PHAGAN CASE WILL GO TO GRAND JURY IN PRESENT FORM

State Is Apparently Ready, as Solicitor Says That He is Not Expecting Any New Evidence for Some Time

BURNS' INVESTIGATOR ON THE JOB, SAYS FELDER

Attorney Declares Fund for Employment of the Famous Sleuth Has Reached $1,500, About $5,000 Is Needed

That the state considers its case as practically complete and is ready to definitely charge the Mary Phagan murder to an individual and to start the legal machinery moving towards a superior court trial is believed from a very significant statement made Saturday by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

"I haven't learned anything new in several days, and do not expect to for some time," he said.

The solicitor is still busy, and practically all of his time is consumed in interviewing witnesses and conferring with the detectives who are at work on the mystery.

The majority of the witnesses examined are people who testified at the inquest or whose names have been identified with the case from the first. Among the several witnesses, however, whose status remains unexplained is Ernest A. Muller, an expert accountant, of Chattanooga, who has been in Atlanta for about ten days.

Mr. Muller was subpoenaed before the solicitor Friday afternoon, and left the city soon after his conference.

WHO WROTE NOTES?

Mr. Muller did not talk of the conference, but before he answered the summons told friends that he presumed the solicitor wished to use him as a handwriting expert. Mr. Dorsey continues reticent as to the part the letters found by Mary Phagan's body will play in the case should any one be brought to trial for the crime, but it is said that the state will contend that they were not written by Newt Lee, the negro night watchman, who was ordered held by the coroner's jury.

The grand jury is scheduled to hold another meeting next Wednesday, but this, it is said, will be for the transaction of routine business, while the Phagan investigation will start Thursday or Friday, and the grand jury will then act on the cases of the negro, Lee, and Superintendent Leo M. Frank, who were committed by the coroner for investigation.

BURNS' MAN HERE.

One of the best of the Burns investigators, a man who was right with the famous detective during the smoking of the McNamaras and in other famous cases, is in Atlanta working quietly toward the solution of the Phagan mystery, according to Attorney T. B. Felder, retained to assist in the prosecution.

Approximately $1,500 has been subscribed already toward the "Burns fund," according to Mr. Felder. The investigation, he says, will require between $4,000 and $5,000, and he is con-

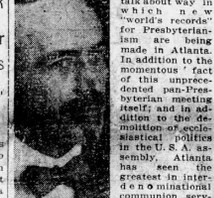
PRESBYTERIANS ARE MAKING SOME NEW "WORLD'S RECORDS" IN ATLANTA, SAYS WM. T. ELLIS

He Vividly Describes the Great Union Sacramental Service at Tabernacle Friday—Sidelights on Some of the Men Who Speak Tonight at the Auditorium

By William T. Ellis



IF the sporting editor were writing this article he would talk about way in which new "world's records" for Presbyterianism are being made in Atlanta. In addition to the momentous fact of this unprecedented pan-Presbyterian meeting itself; and in addition to the demolition of ecclesiastical politics in the U. S. A. assembly, Atlanta has seen the greatest in interdenominational communion service ever held in Presbyterian history.

The significance of the great sacramental service at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon is scarcely to be written; it had to be experienced. Veteran leaders in religious work were so moved that they wept hot tears, even as a young woman at her first communion. Words cannot describe the impression made upon the 3,000 persons present, the well known editor, an elderly man, said afterwards, "I can debate and write and discuss through day and night, and men cannot move me, but that service broke me all up. I give in."

The bearing of this united sacrament upon the relations of the four participating denominations was well expressed by a well known pastor from northern New Jersey. "If we could only quit talking about union and bring our people together three or four times in such a service as that, nothing could keep us from being one church."

The four moderators of the assemblies had charge of the service. The United Presbyterian, Rev. Dr. R. M. Russell, preached a tender, intimate sermon on what the sacrament means to the Christian in his personal relationship with the Saviour. The singing was of the Psalms, and as a Philadelphia official remarked, "That service should insure a new place for the psalter in all our churches." The music was like the sound of many waters chorusing the praise of the Creator.

A GREAT PHYSICAL TASK.

The physical task of serving the elements to that company of 3,000 men and women in two galleries as well as on the main floor must have presented difficulties, but the forty-six elders from all parts of the country did their work as though accustomed to such a task. The service moved with the silence and efficiency of a Corliss engine. Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, who had charge of all the arrangements, has done a work of efficiency that will cause his name to be spoken from many pulpits. There were tables in the galleries as well as in front of the pulpit, and the service was simultaneous, one moderator having charge in each gallery and two on the floor. The individual communion service was used.

During the communion the great organ played softly the hymns of the Passion, and its music breathed upon the hearts of the worshippers like a message of peace from another world. The beauty, the uplift, the fellowship, of this unparalleled occasion revealed the assemblies in their truest light. They are consecrated disciples of the Crucified, whose deepest passion is devotion to the Master and to the work which He has left for them to do. That great sacrament has sweetened and sanctified all the subsequent proceedings of the several assemblies.

The distinctive religious purpose of the meetings will grow plainer to the general public day after day. The leaders in evangelistic work have planned to hold daily theater meetings and street meetings, addressed by commissioners and evangelists. Tomorrow afternoon, in the auditorium, there will be a great mass meeting for men, at which President John Willis Baer, of Occidental college, Pasadena, Cal., will be the principal speaker. Dr. Baer was for many years the general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, and he has presided over and assisted in some of the largest religious meetings in recent American history. He is probably the most popular layman in the Presbyterian denomination. This meeting is for the general public, as are all the meetings scheduled for tomorrow. Most of Atlanta's pulpits will be filled by visiting ministers.

Evangelism and social service will merge tonight, when the auditorium will be filled with the joint meeting on the social service theme. This is a meeting organized by Rev. Charles Stelzle, the best known of social workers in the whole country. Similar gatherings have for years past been the "big meeting" of the Presbyterian general assembly in the United States of America.

THE GREATEST SPEAKER.

The whole country has been reading about Atlanta's advertising campaign for the eradication of the supervised social evil, and the commissioners are keen to hear Marion M. Jackson, the man who wrote the advertisements, tell the story. Atlanta, as a whole, has not yet wakened up to the personality of Dr. James A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, and an interpreter of the theme of internationalism who has caught the country by storm. It is a commonplace experience for him to make the one outstanding speech at great national conventions of many kinds. He is probably the greatest speaker on this unusual gathering has brought to Atlanta. Whether the general public has found it out or not, commissioners know there will be "something doing" when Dr. McDonald speaks at the auditorium tonight.

While the theme of union is "in the air," the only actual proposal for organic union before the assemblies are the negotiations that are proceeding between the Presbyterian church in the United States and the United Presbyterian church. These were considered today in concurrent resolutions in both assemblies. The text of the basis of union is printed elsewhere in this issue. Final action is impossible at this time, even if it were desirable, for ecclesiastical wooings should be leisurely. The basis will be debated and then sent down to the presbyteries for fuller consideration.

MORE PSALM SINGING.

Both of these denominations are extremely conservative in their theology and in their polity, and while they both are among the smaller bodies of the country, they have unquestionably led all other churches in organized activities by the laymen; in the proportion of giving to benevolence by the congregations, and in advanced foreign mission service.

The singing of psalms has been thought by some to be an obstacle to union since this is distinctive with the United Presbyterians, but when the union is effected, the choice of music will be optional with individual congregations. The impressive way in which solemn yesterday's communion service was also paralleled by the impressiveness of the fact that the wonderful organ music rendered the hymns of the passion which are, of course, lacking from the old Testament hymnody. It is reasonable to predict that there is going to be more psalm singing in all Presbyterian churches—and an increase in the use of hymns of the cross in United Presbyterian churches.

SALVADOR KICKS ON U. S. HAVING BASE AT FONSECA

Negotiations for Sale by Nicaragua to U. S. for Right to Use Gulf Protested

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, May 17.—Public sentiment here is considerably aroused by dispatches regarding the negotiations between Nicaragua and the United States for the sale by Nicaragua of the right of construction of an inter-oceanic canal and of a United States naval station in the Gulf of Fonseca.

A protest against the action of Nicaragua in connection with the gulf of Fonseca has been made to the Salvadorian congress by many deputies and prominent citizens who regard the affair as affecting the rights of Salvador and Honduras.

The diplomatic action of Nicaragua in Washington is adversely criticised.

SHRINERS ACCLAIM POTENTATE ADAIR, HOME WITH BACON

With Fezes, Jap Umbrellas, a Band and Three Camels, They Took Possession of Terminal to Welcome Winner

PARADE THROUGH STREETS WAS A TRIUMPHAL MARCH

Capture of Great Shriners' Meet for 1914 Inspired Glad Greeting—Plans are Begun to Care for It

Well, he got back Saturday.

And they were there to meet him.

When Forrest Adair roleid in at the Terminal station it was a case of the conquering hero. Being potentate of Yaarab temple, and all like that, had something to do with the matter; but the paramount idea was that he brought home the bacon. He had it in a little tin box in his pocket—the bacon of that 1914 gathering of the Shriners of North America, which is to be held in Atlanta.

That was it.

Somewhere around 1,000 Shriners marched from the Masonic temple to the Terminal station just after 12 o'clock Saturday behind a rustling time band and a squad of mounted police. They sang "How Dry Am I," and some of 'em looked it. They kept up a hurrah as they marched through Broad street to Mitchell and along that street to the station. A camel in a cage on a truck joined them there. The band and the Shriners took possession of the Terminal. The band marched right on through the waiting room to the platform beyond, playing its head off, the Shriners following in column of twos, cheering as they went.

The old ladies from the backwoods, and the old gentlemen in their dusters, an dthe fretting babies and their worried mothers, and everybody else under the bi groof thought the town had gone crazy. The policemen stayed outside. They are not Shriners. Carlos Mason, head of the police commission, is. Else not even modesty might have availed to keep them from riding their horses through to the gates in the spirit of the thing.

And at 12:40 on the dot the train rolled in with Forrest Adair aboard it.

EVERYBODY GETS BUSY.

Thereupon the Shriners, the bandsmen, the photographers, the movie men and everyone else got busy. It was such a hurrah as the old Terminal, with its rules and regulations, is not often permitted to witness.

Outside on the plaza three camels (or maybe they were dromedaries; nobody but the Grant park zoo keeper knew the difference) were waiting to cross the hot asphalt with the Shriners. The police went first, then the band, then the camels (or dromedaries), then the automobile with Mr. Adair in it and with Forrest Adair, jr., at the wheel and then the Shriners—marching two and two, with the fezes an dtheir Japanese umbrellas and their noise. They marched to Whitehall, across the viaduct, and out Peachtree to the temple. Adjournment from there was to the several oases of the city for the day was warm and cheering does not cool the throat.

WHO WAS THERE.

In the march were F. J. Paxon, who with Mr. Adair as a team mate led the great campaign by which Atlanta raised in a day an entertainment fund for the Shrine convention; Oscar Weinmeister, Chris H. Essig, Dr. M. E. Turner and T. H. Pitt, who were the committee arranging the reception for Mr. Adair; and about everybody else in town that's well known and who happens to be a Shriner.

Members of Morocco Temple, Jacksonville, with their green fezes on, fresh from the Dallas meeting, and Shriners of other southern temples, were in the crowds that lined the way through which the triumphal parade passed.

Cheers from the spectators were answered from the Shriners. Nearly everybody recognized Potentate Adair and yelled greetings and congratulations to him. From some of the upper windows along the way flowers rained down. All the time the band kept playing, the Shriners kept doing little fancy steps and marking time with their umbrellas, and Atlanta kept getting a firmer and

PUBLICATION BOARD ROUNDLY CRITICISED BY U. P. COMMITTEE

Charges Made That Board Has Been Unbusinesslike, and Repeatedly Violated General Assembly Instructions

BOARD MANAGER CALLED TO EXPLAIN CONDITIONS

Assembly Hears Charges That Sensational Headline in Atlanta Paper Has "Stabbed Justice" in Ollie Taylor Case

Charges were made to the United Presbyterian assembly Saturday morning by the committee on board of publication that among other things the board has been unbusinesslike in its methods; and has flagrantly disobeyed the instructions of the general assembly in accepting undesirable advertisements and in making certain purchases, and the manager of the board was called to the platform to explain why the mortgage on the publication house has increased nearly $60,000 in the past year.

The manager himself admitted the justice of practically all the charges, and asserted that various congregations and individuals were so hardened as to disregard their financial duties. No fault was attached to the manager since he has been in charge of the board only since March. In fact, the committee's report recognized his efforts to improve conditions.

Action on this report was deferred until Monday.

The assembly heard also a charge from a representative of the ways and means committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement that in the case of Ollie Taylor, the thirteen-year-old boy recently sent to the Fulton county reformatory, "justice had been stabbed by a sensational headline in a local paper."

It was stated that the charge of Judge McKenzie Cleland on Thursday that the Ollie Taylor case was a "disgrace' to Georgia must have been made through his having been misinformed as to the facts.

The assembly urged broader steps toward international peace.

The assembly adopted the recommendation of the committee on basis

MEXICO IS EXPECTED TO PROTEST ARIZONA'S LAW

Law Restricts Aliens in Land Holding, as Does Webb Bill Against Japs in California

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Arizona's new alien-land law is not regarded here as seriously complicating negotiations with Japan, because the act does not contain the same direct bar against Japanese as the California act.

It is expected, however, that because of its adverse effect upon Mexican land owners in Arizona, a protest will be forthcoming from the Mexican government, even in view of the rather irregular status of the diplomatic relations between America and Mexico.

With both the American and Japanese governments awaiting on the final action of Governor Johnson, the possibility of postponing the operation of the proposed California law by invoking the referendum is again being discussed in official circles.

The overwhelming majority for the Webb bill in both branches of the California legislature makes some Californians in Washington doubtful if the necessary 20,000 signatures for a referendum could be secured.

English Press Discusses Possibilities of a War

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 17.—"Should war break out, the sympathies of Australia, New Zealand and western Canada would be violently on the side of the United States," says the Pall Mall Gazette today, in discussing the California alien land ownership controversy.

The newspaper considers that it would be a grave mistake to underestimate the chances of a conflict between the United States and Japan, it says.

"The opinion that the Japanese will never go to war to enforce their treaty rights in California is one of those dangerous generalities which lead nations blindfolded to the brink of the pit."

The Pall Mall Gazette expresses the opinion that there are several reasons why Japan may be desirous of forcing the issue at the present moment. The most obvious of these is the pending opening of the Panama canal, while a more remote one is connected with the condition of her internal politics.

The article continues: "The point at issue—the exclusion of Asiatics from permanent settlement—touches the British empire very nearly."

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, nor run up a heavy doctor's bill, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." He has had no return whatever of the pain, backache and burning. His name is J. A. Farmer, and he says: "I cannot help but recommend Foley Kidneys Pills as a very effective cure for kidney and bladder trouble." For sale by all dealers.—(Advt.)

FLORIDA MONUMENT TO BE UNVEILED AT REUNION

Monument to Confederate Dead to Be Dedicated on Chickamauga Battlefield

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 17.—The new Florida monument on Chickamauga battlefield will be unveiled and dedicated on the second day of the coming Confederate reunion, May 28.

This decision was reached after a conference between the members of Florida commission and the officers.

Of the local reunion committee this makes two monuments on the second day, the other being that of Alabama.

Ex-Senator Samuel Pasco and General E. W. Law, of Florida, members of the state commission, arrived in the city yesterday morning to complete the program an darrangements.

VANDERBILT DEBATERS BEST KENTUCKY STATERS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 17.—On Thursday evening, in college hall, Vanderbilt won from Kentucky State university in debate. The subject discussed was "Resolved, That American vessels engaged in coastwise trade should be allowed the use of the Panama canal free of tolls."

Kentucky defended the affirmative side and Vanderbilt the negative. The debaters were as follows: Affirmative, James R. Bussey, J. L. Doyle, T. F. Rigdon; negative, A. M. Pyburn, C. C. Sims, D. Y. Register.

California Official Offers to Take Place Of Ruef for 90 Days

(By Associated Press.)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Charles Montgomery, president of the California prison commission, made an offer to Governor Johnson that he should take the place of Abraham Ruef, convicted political boss of San Francisco, in a cell at San Quentin prison for three months to enable Ruef to visit his dying father, according to a letter made public today by Montgomery.

The letter says:

"I will go for three months to the penitentiary as his (Ruef's) substitute granting him the three months liberty to be with his sick, dying father and his broken-hearted mother, and will wear stripes, obey every prison rule, work if I'm utmost and remain in prison without a complaint until Ruef comes back to relieve me.

"There is no law to permit of this exchange now, but the legislature is in session and it can very easily be arranged. I will sign papers, waiving every human right and will gladly surrender myself at San Quentin to take Ruef's place at once."

MILITANTS SET FIRE TO OCCUPIED HOUSES

Plans of Arson Campaign Are Changed—Tenanted Residence Is Fired

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 17.—The militant suffragettes today made a slight change in their arson campaign. Instead of setting fire to unoccupied houses, they attempted to destroy a tenant residence at Cambridge. The interior woodwork was greatly damaged and one of the university laboratories adjoining also suffered.

Another canister of gunpowder and slugs were found at Boxmoor station in Hertfordshire, on the London and Northwestern railway today.

STENOGRAPHER SAYS HEETER WAS FAMILIAR

Probe of Charges Against Pittsburg Superintendent of Schools Takes New Turn

(By Associated Press.)

PITTSBURG, May 17.—Investigation of alleged immorality against S. L. Heeter, superintendent of the public schools of Pittsburg, now in progress by a committee of citizens composed of bishops, ministers and business men, took a new turn today when a former stenographer in Heeter's employ made affidavit of "undue familiarity," which caused her to quit her position, she stated. Heeter had branded her story as "another malicious lie."

Heeter, charged by a servant in his home of two serious offenses, was tried in criminal court and acquitted. Other charges brought on the present investigation.

The mother of the superintendent recently died and the probe was halted. Meanwhile children remained away from school and thousands of them paraded the streets carrying banners inscribed "Kick Heeter Out."

The committee of citizens appointed by the board of education has had one meeting. When the next will take place is indefinite because of the reluctance of witnesses to appear before the body, although assured that their names and testimony are to be kept secret.

DEMOCRATS WIN FIRST BLOOD IN SENATE FIGHT

Republicans, With Two Democrats, Fail in Effort to Force Public Hearings on Tariff

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Neither the senate nor house was in session today and consideration of the tariff bill had passed from the senate floor to the finance committee where it will remain at least two weeks.

Chairman Simmons announced that the sub-committee considering the various schedules would not be ready to report for several days.

One committee is at work on the wool schedule, another is considering protests against cuts in the cotton goods rates, and a third today gave a hearing to Assistant Attorney General Denison and Assistant Secretary Curtis, of the treasury department, who proposed amendments to the administrative features of the bill.

Among changes they advocate is one to give the secretary of the treasury the right to proclaim general valuations of imports, irrespective of foreign markets, upon which to base advalorem tariff rates.

Democratic leaders in the senate were indorsed late yesterday in their determination to refer the Underwood tariff bill to the finance committee for consideration without public hearings. The Penrose-LaFollette amendment directing that public hearings be held was defeated by a vote of 41 to 36, and the motion of Senator Simmons to refer the bill was then passed without a roll call.

Two democrats, Senators Ransdell and Thornton, of Louisiana, voted for the republican amendment. Senator Poindexter, of Washington, Progressive, voted with the majority. Senator Jones, of Washington, Republican, who previously had determined to vote against public hearings, announced that he had changed his mind because the finance subcommittee were giving private hearings to some interests which he thought should be public.

STRIKERS HURL ROCKS INTO CINCINNATI CARS

Several "Non-Combatants" Injured by Flying Missiles, Cars Attacked

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 17.—Violence marked the strike of employes of the Cincinnati Traction company today when a crowd of men attacked operators of two cars leaving the Brighton barns.

At Fourth and Vine streets missiles were hurled from a building in course of construction upon an Elberon car. Several pedestrians were hurt.

The strike situation having apparently gotten beyond the control of the local police, Mayor Hunt today sent a request to Governor Cox for militia.

When "A-m" Spells "Am"

(The Christian Science Monitor.)

One of the supposed niceties of speech which to many ears seems over nice is the pronunciation of the word program when the French termination "me" is left off. These careful folk try to shorten the sound of the "a" with the shortening of the word. But "gram" spells "gram" in English and may safely be so pronounced wherever it is found.

Mrs. Lincoln's Bitter Letters to Be Sold At Auction Next Week

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—What are known as Mrs. Lincoln's "bitter letters" are to be sold at auction here next week. The collection consists of twelve letters written by the widow of the martyred president in the years just following his assassination.

In some of them Mrs. Lincoln was almost hysterical in upbraiding congress for not providing for her and in her denunciation of General Grant.

One letter written in August, 1865, asks a friend to try to sell the black lace gown which Mrs. Lincoln wore at the second inauguration "for two hours only" in order to raise money for the support of herself and her two boys. The gown was one presented to her by a friend of her husband and it cost $3,500.

In another letter, dated December 30, 1865, Mrs. Lincoln writes bitterly of the fortunes of the Grant family compared with her own and declares that "General Grant's services to his country were certainly not superior to my husband's."

WILL U. S. RECOGNIZE PRESENT MEXIC HEAD?

Some Action Is Expected Soon, as Successor to Ambassador Wilson Will Be Named

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The unsatisfactory state of relations between the United States and Mexico probably soon will induce the administration to take some definite attitude toward recognition of the Huerta government.

The fact that several of the general states already have accorded recognition, including seven of the great powers, is said to be having an influence upon the United States. It is expected that very soon a new ambassador will be appointed to succeed Henry Lane Wilson, and that his credentials will be directed to Provisional President Huerta.

STRAWBERRIES SUFFER FROM LONG DRY SPELL

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 17.—Crops of all kinds in this immediate section are suffering from a lack of rain. Just at present strawberries are showing the injurious effects of the lack of moisture more than any other commodity.

During the first fifteen days of May the total precipitation in this section has been but .30 inches, showing a deficiency for the month of .98 inches. Unless unusually heavy rains fall during the remainder of the month the farmers may be seriously affected.

12,000 CITY EMPLOYES PARADE GOTHAM STREETS

Fire and Police Departments Join Other Municipal Employes in Long Procession

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Twelve thousand city employes turned out today to give New York an object lesson in municipal government. The lesson was a street parade six miles long. It was the first in which all the various municipal departments united.

The fire department headed the line with 1,495 men and twenty-two pieces of apparatus (all that could be spared with safety), three boats and ten trucks; and the police brought up the rear, 7,224 strong with thirty-five vehicles.

The divisions between comprised the other municipal workers, many in uniform and all accompanied by the implements and vehicles of their work. The department of parks added variety with sazes of animals from the Central park zoo, headed by a trick elephant.

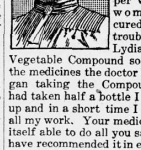
A proposal never seems just right to a girl unless it is backed up by some moonlight scenery.

Today's failure may mean tomorrow's success.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Severe Case of a Philadelphia Woman—Her Symptoms.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness.



"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicines the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case.

Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysteric spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have begun to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. HORNBERGER, No. 3, Ephrata, Pa.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

(a) The integrity of the Holy Scriptures. The Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments are to be received as the very word of God, and their authority is to be recognized as the only infallible rule of faith and life.

(b) Our Lord Jesus Christ is not only the Son of God in respect of His natural, necessary and eternal relation to the Father, but also the true and supreme God, being one in essence with the Father and the Holy Spirit.

(c) Our Lord Jesus Christ, besides the dominion which belongs to Him as God, has received from the Father a two-fold dominion with which He has been invested by the Father as the reward of His sufferings. These are: a dominion over the church, of which He is the living head and lawgiver and source of all that is Christian, and authority by which she is sustained and governed, and also a dominion over all created persons and things, which is exercised by Him in subserviency to the manifestation of God's glory in the system of redemption and the interests of His church.

(d) As to the constitution of the person of our Redeemer, the scriptures plainly teach that He was conceived by the holy ghost in the womb of the Virgin Mary and was born without a human father; that He was free of perfect obedience, and by the shedding of His blood made full atonement for sin and purchased the redemption for his people.

(e) The holy Spirit is the third person of the Trinity, eternally proceeding from the Father and Son does, by a direct influence accompanying the word so act on the soul as to quicken, regenerate and sanctify it; it is His to take of the things of Christ and show them unto men, and without His direct operation the soul would persist in rejecting the truths of God and would refuse to yield to the motives which it presents." In His gracious work the holy spirit is the revealer of Christ, the interpreter of his word and the comforter of the believer.

In addition to these essential doctrines, the united church would lift into prominence:

MISSION OF THE CHURCH.

(1) The mission of the church. We believe that the supreme purpose of the son of God is the only hope of a sinful, dying world. We recognize in the commands of Christ the urgent call to the evangelization of the world and we how before the imperative duty of sending the message of the word for a witness among all nations.

(2) The exclusively spiritual character of the church's mission. This union is based on the statement of our common confession of Faith, viz: "Synods and Councils are to handle or conclude nothing but that which is ecclesiastical, and are not to intermeddle with civil affairs which concern the commonwealth unless by way of humble petition in cases extraordinary or by way of advice for satisfaction of conscience, if they be thereunto required by the civil magistrate."

(3) The exclusively spiritual character of the mission of the church does not imply that the church owes no duty to civil society. On the contrary it is the imperative duty of the church through its members as citizens of the civil commonwealth, to apply the principles of Christianity to all the political, social and industrial conditions of society.

The supreme judicatory of the United church shall be a general assembly, the official title of which shall be, "The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America," it being understood and agreed that this shall not affect local and historic names of churches, presbyteries and synods.

As to the basis of the representation and the conduct and the proceedings of the First General Assembly, the Book of Church Order of the Presbyterian Church in the United States shall be authoritative.

The subordinate courts of the church shall continue to use provisionally the book of rules under which they have hitherto been governed.

The synods and presbyteries shall remain as at present constituted, until such time as it shall manifestly appear that some change is needed for the best interests of the cause and kingdom of Christ.

All executive agencies shall continue as at present, and congregations shall continue to send their contributions through the customary channels. But these executive agencies shall co-operate with each other as far as practicable in the circumstances, and shall seek to devise some method by which, with the authoritative action of the general assembly, and the approbation of the whole church, they can become completely identified. Before, however, such complete consolidation takes place, careful steps shall be taken after consultation with competent attorneys to safeguard and preserve all property rights affected by the union of churches.

DIFFERENCES DEFINED.

There is a difference in the historic faith and practice of the two churches touching the matter of praise in the worship of God. The one church holds the belief that the book of Psalms is the perfect and divinely accredited manual of praise, and as such is to be used in worship to the exclusion of all devotional compositions of uninspired persons.

The other, while believing that the Psalms of Scripture were designed for permanent use in the church, and should have a large place in Christian worship, yet hold that other compositions that are in harmony with the teaching of Scripture may, with propriety and profit, be used in congregational singing.

This difference is frankly recognized, but holding our respective views, in but holding our respective views, in the following as a practicable basis:

We believe that the Psalter of the Bible, the Psalms of David, is an inspired manual of praise and that the Spirit of God indicted these songs to be used in the worship of the people of God to the end of time. The united church will, therefore, take immediate steps to introduce to all its congregations, by indorsing and recommending, the Psalms of the Bible in the best metrical versions as a divinely indicted book of praise. But while strongly commending the use of the Psalms, it is agreed that each church or its respective synods shall be allowed in the matter of congregational singing the same liberty which it now enjoys.

Finally, recognizing that it is impossible to make specific provision for all points of difference that may arise, it is understood that these churches enter the union in the spirit of mutual confidence and Christian love, and with a sincere view to the honor of Christ and the extension of His kingdom. It follows from this that the law of Christian charity as expounded by the Apostle Paul must be our guide: Let us not, therefore, judge one another any more; but judge ye this rather that no man put a stumbling block in his brother's way."

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Dr. John A. Henderson Delivers Address in Memory of 32 Departed Ministers

Members of the United Presbyterian assembly joined in a body Friday afternoon singing in memory of their number who have died within the past year, the massive words of the burial ceremony—"Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling through all the ages."

Rev. Dr. J. R. Work, presiding, then read the list of the thirty-two new names on the roll of the dead, thirty-one of whom passed away in America, and one, a native minister, in Egypt.

Dr. John A. Henderson delivered the memorial address, paying tribute to "those who rest, very aptly, for their labor is done."

"The service of the gospel demands relays or consecrated work for its ministry," he said. "There's great necessity that the church sending that the ranks are filled. Thirty-two ministers of the United Presbyterian church have died within the past year. Only a little over half that number have been introduced into the ministry this same period.

"The best monument we can build over the graves of our departed brethren is a consecrated, persistent energy toward saving men," he said.

The assembly adjourned at 3:15 to take part in a communion service in union with the other assemblies in session in Atlanta.

U. S. A. ASSEMBLY WANTS UNIFORM DIVORCE LAWS

Ministers and Churches Urged to Make Widespread Campaign Against Divorce

The Northern assembly Friday afternoon adopted unanimously the resolution offered by the committee on Christian life and work, urging ministers and churches in the assembly to organize a new and widespread campaign against the divorce evil, and urging the ministers and church courts to study the laws of marriage and divorce laws in the various states with a view of securing improvement.

Moreover, the assembly added to the resolution this line: "With a view also of securing uniformity of legislation on marriage and divorce."

The assembly adopted the following other recommendations of the committee:

That the diaconate, though lacking in 51 per cent of the churches, could and should be made one of the most conspicuous and blessed agencies of the church.

That the assembly indorse interchurch federations.

When thirteen of the nineteen sections of the report had been read it was moved to follow the reading before the communion service, scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock, and therefore the balance of the report was deferred until Monday.

Likewise the report of the committee on church co-operation and union, which was introduced by Dr. James M. Good, president of the general synod of the German Reform Presbyterian church, who made a brief address advocating the idea of federal union between all of the different Presbyterian groups in America. He was warmly received.

Five minutes were allowed Judge MacKenzie Cleland, of Chicago, in which to present a plea for applying "the Christ spirit" to the jails of the country. He asked the assembly to appoint a commission on the subject, and the matter was referred to the committee on bills and overtures.

The communion service, which began promptly at 4 o'clock, was profoundly impressive.

The commissioners of the Northern assembly sat in the parquet of the Tabernacle.

The commissioners of the Southern and the U. P. assemblies sat in the balcony.

The gallery was filled with spectators. A delegation of U. P. commissioners occupied the choir loft and sang several psalms.

The bread and wine were served simultaneously from two tables, one in the parquet directly beneath the rostrum, the other in the balcony. The wine was poured in individual cups, over 1,200 being used.

The moderators of the three assemblies presided.

It was the first time in the world's history for the three assemblies to unite in communion, and was perhaps the first time that the Presbyterian communion was ever served from two tables.

The communion closed the day's program for the assemblies, though they assemble Friday night in the auditorium for another great popular meeting.

WORLD CHAMPION SCHOOL KEEPS UP ITS FAST PACE

The First Christian Bible school is expecting to have an immense attendance Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The "Flying Squadron" held on Friday for this school the honor of being the largest Bible school in the world on May 14, has not abated, and the famous "Flying Squadron" is still at work gathering members.

This school is preparing for a unique day, instituted by the general, on May 25—"Flower day." Every scholar will bring a bouquet of flowers, which afterward will be distributed to hospitals and penal and charitable institutions in the city. It is expected that at least 3,000 will assemble in the First Christian church Sunday morning.

One of the features of the institutional work of the First Christian was the "May Feast party" held on Friday. For dinner and supper in the dining rooms of the church hundreds of Atlantians gathered during the day and evening, including a large number of business men. The cooking, which was done in the church kitchen, under the direction of the ladies of the church, was pronounced perfection of the art.

"Let each of us please his neighbor for that which is good unto edifying." "doing nothing through faction or vainglory, but lowliness of mind, each counting other better than himself; not looking each of you to his own things, but each of you also to the things of others."

"PROTESTANT POWER IS WEAKENED BY DIVISION"

Dr. Davies, at Presbyterian Meet in Auditorium, Predicts Great Revival

That "the power of Protestantism seems to be falling here and there" and that one of the reasons for that receding is "the endless division among Protestants themselves" were among the assertions made by Dr. John R. Davies, U. S. A. assembly, of Philadelphia, Pa., in a cogent speech upon "pastoral evangelism" at the Presbyterians' second popular meeting in the auditorium Friday night.

Dr. Davies concluded with the prediction of another great revival.

The keynote of the evening's program was evangelism. Rev. Hugh W. Rankin, U. S. A. assembly, of Salt Lake City, Utah, told of his experiences as a Sabbath school missionary in the northwest, for a number of years past.

"A decided majority of the twelve varieties of Presbyterian elders in this country do practically nothing in the line of personal evangelism," said Dr. W. E. McCulloch, United Presbyterian assembly, of Pittsburg, Pa.

STIRRING OLD SONGS.

The second of the Presbyterians "union" meetings in the auditorium convened at 8:20 Friday evening, following a prelude of stirring old songs. The songs were from the Presbyterian psalter, and were accompanied on the big organ, with Rev. Ralph Atkinson leading them again. The entire audience joined in lifting a mighty chorus with Mr. Atkinson's assistance at the "pick up" choir. The negroes, in a section of their own at the right of the stage, sang twice alone, the first verse of song No. 408, "Triumphant Joy in God," winning hearty applause with each rendition. Mr. Atkinson manifested a remarkable ability to inspire the big impromptu chorus with his own enthusiasm.

Dr. R. O. Flinn, pastor of North Avenue church, announced that a song service, to commence at 7:20 o'clock, will precede the Saturday evening service in the auditorium. The singers of Spellman seminary and the negro Baptist college in Atlanta will render negro melodies.

Dr. A. L. Phillips, of the U. S. A. assembly, superintendent of Sunday school work, Richmond, Va., convened the meeting and spoke the prayer with which its program began.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONS.

Rev. Hugh W. Rankin, of the U. S. A. assembly, Sunday school missionary, of Salt Lake City, Utah, was the first speaker. He told of conditions which he has found in his years of experience as a missionary in the northwestern United States.

In seventy-five years, said he, the work that he represents has established 20,600 Sunday schools, principally in the desolate sections of the country sections that formerly were destitute utterly of the gospel.

He described one place that he visited where an old resident told him that in sixteen years no missionary of any degree had visited.

He told of another place where he was holding service in a tent, and the cowboys "shot up" the meeting. "Bullets flew like hail," said he. "There wasn't much time for meditation just then." He said that his congregation ran out, screaming, but he began to sing "Rock of Ages," and, after a few moments, the meeting was resumed.

"Oh, how hungry those people are for the gospel!" he exclaimed. "Seven of those men whom we converted out there are consecrated today in the service of God, and scores of others have dedicated their lives to His goodness."

"DO-NOTHING" ELDERS.

Dr. W. E. McCulloch, of the United Presbyterian assembly, of Pittsburg, Pa., spoke upon "Personal Evangelism."

"There is a sad lack of individual work for individuals," he asserted. "Who will deny that a decided majority of the twelve varieties of Presbyterian elders in this county do practically nothing in the line of personal evangelism. As for the United Presbyterian congregation last year reported not a single new member by conversion, letter or otherwise. And when there are such shortcomings among the ministers and elders, what is to be said of the members themselves? Only a few of them are vitally interested or are engaged actively in the salvation of souls.

"What ails a large percentage of the membership of our churches today is the lack of a particularly strong motive for service. The motive is just this—that we may be co-workers with God in the extension of the kingdom of God.

"The pulpit appeal too often scatters, while the personal appeal goes straight to the man," said he, after asserting that the great majority of accessions in membership by professions of faith are traceable to the influence of personal evangelism.

Dr. John R. Davies, of Philadelphia, Pa., of the U. S. A. assembly, was the third and last speaker, his subject being "Pastoral Evangelism."

"The power of Protestantism seems to be falling here and there," he began. "And there are two very sensible reasons for that receding. The first is the establishment of the order of Jesuits. The other is the endless divisions among Protestants themselves—one by wing under Luther and the other under Calvin, both of them standing farther and farther apart in controversies that are quite criminal. Upon every side there is a sad and awful rendence as far as morals and religion and spiritual force and fervor are concerned.

"Another revival is coming. On every side there rises the cry 'How long, O Lord, how long!' We need a revival to take up God's duty and bring it back to its old place in town and village and country."

PRESBYTERIAN PRESS GUEST OF DR. JACOBS

Writers Favor Union of Hearts, If Not of the Organizations

Union in spirit, if not in concrete reality, was the feeling expressed at the luncheon given the Presbyterian editors and presse representatives by Rev. Thornwell Jacobs at the Capital City club Friday.

The writers and editors, however, were not in favor of organic union.

"In many ways it is good for us to remain divided in organization, and there is no need for us to rush into talk of organic union," D. S. Kennedy, of the Presbyterian, Philadelphia, declared.

That the Presbyterians are now one in heart, if not in organization, was the feeling expressed at the luncheon. Rufus W. Miller, of the Reformed Church Messenger, of Philadelphia, expressed the policy this way:

"In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

The fine spirit of the assemblies was praised by James A. MacDonald, managing editor of the Toronto Globe, and Dr. W. P. Jacobs, father of Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, made an interesting talk. Other speakers were David M. Sweets, of the Christian Observer, Louisville; Noland B. Best, the Continent, New York; William T. Ellis, the Continent, Philadelphia; C. W. Welsh, the New York Tribune, and Oliver R. Williamson, the Continent, Chicago.

Resolutions which paid a tribute to Rev. Thornwell Jacobs were offered and unanimously adopted.

THE DISCOVERY OF A SIMPLE RECIPE HAS BROUGHT A FORTUNE

A recipe was made by a singer who had suffered for years with severe indigestion, and by the help of a celebrated French doctor, who had told him of a vegetable with marvelous digestive properties, this vegetable was used in a sauce which the singer added to his food and in the cooking. Carloads of Waw-Waw have now been sent to different parts of the world, and in every place it has had a phenomenal success. The best cooks in Europe pronounced the sauce unexcelled. It adds a zest and piquancy when used in the cooking and with soups, salads, hot and cold meats and fish which is unequalled, and at the same time one feels one can digest anything. Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American Indian word for vegetable) is a purely vegetable sauce and contains no raw spices and is guaranteed absolutely pure. Waw-Waw is unlike all other sauces and although it resembles a Worcestershire, yet the ingredients used are quite different. It costs very little to try this wonderful Waw-Waw, which is now to be found in the principal hotels, railroads and homes in America. A 25 cent bottle will convince you how much more you will enjoy your food by adding Waw-Waw and how easily you will digest your food.

COTTON MARKET STEADY; PRICES LITTLE CHANGED

Market in New York Closed 1 Point Up to 2 Points Off From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—Cotton opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of four points on reports of general showers or rains in the country sections of the eastern belt. There was an active demand from shorts or trade sources in the declines, however, and while the outlook for continued showers east of the river suggested a thorough breaking of the market, prices rallied to about yesterday's closing during the early trading.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—Cotton futures opened steady at a decline of five to six points on reports of a general rain all of the cotton belt. Reats were very disposed to follow up this advantage although the forecast promised more rain in the Atlantic. Fresh short selling was met by rather heavy buying of covers on the part of shorts who wanted to even up over the week-end. Not much local long buying was in evidence. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were five points down.

The market was quiet and very narrow throughout the entire session. At no time were offerings liberal and the moderate inquiry for covers from the short side served to maintain prices rather steadily. Rumors of a revision of the government in last year's acreage statistics that would cause a bullish construction to be placed on many of the private estimates of the crop printed, helped the market to some extent, although it could not be said that they caused long buying. At the highest the trading months were 2 to 3 points under yesterday's finals. The close was at a net decline of three to four points.

Logan and Bryant: There seems to be more of less public sentiment in favor of the bull side which at this time has a tendency to check aggressive operations on the short side owing to the fact that leading spot interest seems to be inclined to the constructive side of that month.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Good to heavy rains fell nearly all over the western cotton belt, while very little rain was reported by the government in the eastern belt, where showers is most needed. But the mere talk of rain seemed enough to encourage scalpers on the short side until the rings learned that some big spot people were buying in New York contracts and that some large auction sales in the east were passing our astonishingly well. After that the market turned easy, decidedly easy undertone. Throughout the session, however, business was on the moderate scale, Liverpool closed good and big Asian cotton to-day to-day fresh interest anywhere in the cotton trade. Nevertheless there is a growing suspicion in many quarters that the Liverpool people are quietly picking up the new crop contracts in New Orleans, and a speculation ahead is over in favor of selling.

Weather may very favorable. Fair weather half, except cloudy central Texas, cloudy eastern half, with general rains covering Alabama and all of the Carolinas. Rain is decidedly needed in Georgia and Florida. Indications are for rain storm, cooler northwestern interior, continued cloudy, general showers in eastern half of the belt. Rain storms were: Texas and Oklahoma clear, pleasant.

American Printing company, Fall River, is operating on full time, with a force of 1,800 hands, as has been the practice since the beginning of January.

Forecast: Louisiana.—Tonight and Sunday unsettled; scattered showers in the east portion tonight, scattered showers and cooler in west portion tonight; cooler Sunday, general showers in eastern half of the belt. Rain storms were: Texas and Oklahoma clear, pleasant.

Arkansas.—Unsettled, showers tonight or Sunday.

Oklahoma.—Tonight and Sunday generally cloudy, cooler.

East Texas.—Tonight and Sunday generally cloudy; cooler tonight; Sunday showers and southerly winds on the coast.

West Texas.—Tonight and Sunday generally fair; cooler tonight and in southeast portion.

North Carolina and South Carolina.—Showers tonight and Sunday.

Georgia and Alabama.—Fair tonight and Sunday.

Kentucky.—Showers tonight or Sunday.

Tennessee.—Showers tonight or Sunday.

Mississippi.—Showers tonight or Sunday.

Bradstreet's says: Reports to the commercial agencies from Chicago, Minneapolis, Detroit, Hartford, Bangor, Portland, Me., Burlington, Vt., Hartford, Wiggin, Heuts and Ray leading buyers, Beardsley, Hubbard, Hess, Rothschild, Frederick sees a fair trading week to-day at opening.

While map was construed as favorable to crop conditions, the crowd is inclined to buy and the buying is broader than the selling coming from spot interests.

Riordan bid market up.

Leading Liverpool cables say the demand for freight room for all months is very small, nearly nominal.—Kofler.

STOCK GOSSIP

Dow Jones summary: Senate rebels 41 to 36 against public hearings on tariff bill; Senate finance committee to-day to-day; Investigating jury in East St. Louis indicts Big Four, VanDuzo, Chicago, Indiana and Illinois Central and Pullman officials for rebating. Trade reports show some shattering of business in the face of the prospective tariff changes, conservatism is pronounced east but in west and south splendid crop conditions give confidence. Cotton—Crop of three cyprus compilation, say passed post has caused reduction of 25 to 30c per bale in estimates of acreage during first quarter. Twelve industrials advanced .02; 20 active rails advanced .06.

Currency movements indicate an increase in reserve today. Sentiment regarding an increase in freight rates is improving and is a factor that would stimulate an investment demand for any stocks. Foolish. Rapid Transit set is being accumulated by inside interests and should sell higher on prospects of an increased dividend or new stock. Rumors persistent regarding Harriman dissolution plan next week. Believe it will be favorable to Union Pacific.—Foster.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: It was the general impression among close students of the market conditions that the short interest in May Wheat has hardly started to cover and were anticipating a materially higher range in the near future. Cash sales were also very friendly to July. Conservative people said they preferred to see a further boom of corn and oats on breaks, as there has been fairly good weight in the situation after the advance had run. It was the gossip of the oats trade that the Armour Grain company has more May oats than any other interest.

Barlett, Frazier & Co. say: Map shows light rains in Kansas and Oklahoma and east of the river. The market is apt to be under local pressure in sympathy with cable advices and lack of cash inquiry.

Corn—Look for rather nervous market.

Oats—Based very heavily and likely to continue so today.

Provisions—Scattered liquidation caused easier feeling yesterday with cash trade in lard slow, but fair in meats.

Logan selling July wheat.

Those who may be figuring that any of the 400 wheat cars unloaded in Chicago will be available for delivery on June contracts may as well dissabuse their minds of that idea. The most of the lots unloaded across the board have been every friendly to July. Conservative people said they preferred to see a further boom of corn

STRICTER OBSERVANCE OF SABBATH IS URGED

U. S. A. Presbyterian Committee Rebukes Congress for Sabbath Session March 2

An urgent plea for strict observance of the Sabbath is contained in the report of the special committee on Sabbath observance, which was read to the U. S. A. Presbyterian assembly Saturday morning.

The committee submitted the following recommendations:

That the assembly reiterate its emphatic disapproval of all secular uses of the Sabbath, such as sports, unnecessary traveling and excursions, and Sabbath day labor in the industries.

That the assembly urge public officials everywhere to take a decided stand in favor of Sabbath observance.

That the assembly urge all families not to buy anything on the Sabbath; to plan so that their servants may observe the day, and to pay their laborers so that they may have Saturday afternoon to make provision for the Sabbath.

That the assembly heartily indorse the Saturday half-holiday plan.

That the assembly urge colleges and seminaries to make Monday the holiday, so as to obviate the necessity of study on the Sabbath.

WHITE HOUSE "CLOSED."

Under the head of "victories," the committee mention the fact that President Woodrow Wilson, an elder of the Presbyterian church, has closed the white house on the Sabbath to "politics and pleasure-seekers," and that the Christian influence of himself and his family is being felt in government and social circles in Washington. The committee hopes that with a Presbyterian president, vice president and secretary of state there will be passed a new Sabbath observance law by congress governing the national capital.

Other "victories" mentioned by the committee are the closing of first and second class postoffices; the abolishment of the "seven-day week" by the United States Steel corporation, and the action of the American Telephone & Telegraph company in reducing Sunday work hours to the lowest possible minimum.

The committee says there has been a better enforcement of Sunday laws in the past year, and that the "annual crop of anti-Sabbath bills in state legislatures were most all defeated."

CONGRESS IS REBUKED.

Reviewing other conditions, the committee calls attention to the fact that California is the only state with practically no Sabbath law; recommends that the United States government decline to erect a building at the Panama exposition unless the gates are closed on the Sabbath, and remarks that the United States congress was in session on all day on Sunday, March 2, "a thing that should not be allowed to occur again."

CONSIDERATION OF REPORT.

The report of the committee on Sabbath observance was presented by James Yearance, chairman of the committee, a prominent insurance man of New York. On the committee are some of the leading laymen of the Presbyterian church, among them John Wanamaker, the millionaire merchant prince of Philadelphia.

The "victories" in the report were received with enthusiastic applause, especially the mention of President Wilson's having closed the White House on Sunday.

The recommendations at the close of the report, ten in number, were not acted on, owing to the press of other business, but all of them probably will be adopted.

W. R. Bennett, an ex-congressman, took occasion to defend the sixty-second congress in reply to the mention of its having been in session all day Sunday, March 2. He said he disagreed politically with that notable assemblage of Democrats, but from a religious standpoint he admired their fine moral character.

PRESBYTERIANS ALLOWED TO PREACH ON STREETS

Mayor Woodward Saturday Morning Grants Permit at Dr. Walker's Request

Mayor Woodward Saturday morning gave permission to the Presbyterian ministers who are meeting in Atlanta to hold services upon the streets during the remaining days of the Presbyterian assemblies.

He made no restrictions as to the streets where these services are to be held, with the exception that Peachtree and Whitehall streets at Five Points shall not be used as meeting places.

He made exception to avoid a congestion in the center of the city. Upon all other streets, at any time during the remaining days of the great Presbyterian gatherings, services may be held.

Mayor Woodward Saturday morning granted this permission to Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who applied to him for a permit for street services.

Beginning on Monday evening the most famous ministers of the Presbyterian church will preach upon the streets of Atlanta. No street meetings, however, will be held on Sunday.

COMMITTEES GET TIME TO FORMULATE REPORTS

Southern Presbyterians Hold Brief Session—Adjourn Till Monday Morning

When the third day's session of the southern Presbyterian assembly convened at the North Avenue Presbyterian church Saturday morning it was manifest at the outset that the standing committees appointed Friday by the moderator, Dr. J. S. Lyons, had not been given sufficient time to get down to active work and prepare their reports on the ninety-odd communications turned over to them by the stated clerk.

Accordingly a motion for adjournment until Monday morning was made and passed unanimously at 11 o'clock The time until adjournment was taken up by the assignment of overtures and communications.

Dr. Thomas S. Clyce, the retired moderator, introduced a report on the elect infant clause after it had been referred to a committee. Action was deferred, however, owing to the fact that no formal report of the action of the presbytery had been made. It is known that the vote of the presbytery has been completed, but the result will not be made public until this report is received by the committee.

"ELECT INFANT" CLAUSE.

Dr. R. C. Reed, of Columbia, S. C. has explained the meaning of the infant clause which is touched on in the "brief statement" that comes up as a special order Tuesday afternoon for discussion and action of the assembly.

As the clause now stands, Dr. Reed explains, it expresses the belief that only elect infants are saved in the event of death. The movement on foot is to include all infants in the clause, and not only those specified as "elect."

Immediately after adjournment every committee that has been appointed got down to active work, and indications are that real progress will be made Monday morning. There is much to be accomplished between now and that time, and sessions of the committee will be held as late as Saturday night.

When the session was called to order there were even more present than on the day previous. There were a number of ladies scattered around the church and the gallery was occupied for the first time since the conference began. As usual the meeting was opened with a short devotional service of song and prayer.

WORK FOR COMMITTEES.

Various overtures, including references to the elect infant clause and the confession of faith, were referred to committees.

A petition from the elders and others of Richwood church, Ky., asking the assembly to petition the states for action upholding the temperance laws was referred to the committee on bills and overtures.

Dr. R. C. Reed, chairman of the committee on union with the United Presbyterian church of North America, submitted the report of the committee. Exhibiting the deepest interest in this paper, the assembly insisted on Dr. Reed's clear and distinct pronunciation of every word.

At the conclusion of the reading, the committee recommended that this report be placed on the docket for the consideration of the next assembly. Dr. Reed spoke a word of explanation to say that two members of the committee, Hon. W. F. Stevenson, of Cheraw, S. C., and Dr. Allen G. Hall, of Nashville, did not attend the joint meeting of the committee.

The assembly unanimously adopted the report for a place on the docket for the consideration of the next assembly, and ordered the assembly officials to give the report as much publicity as possible. Copies of the report will go to all members of congregations.

Welcome, rain.

There can be no doubt about the fact of a united Democracy these days.

Quarterly Reports of County Fees.

It is doubtless through oversight rather than design that a hundred or more county officials in Georgia have failed to observe the State law which requires them to submit to the comptroller general at the end of each quarter of the year detailed reports showing the fees collected by them and the expenses incurred in the conduct of their offices. It is important, however, for their own as well as the State's interests that they delay this duty no longer; for, all delinquents in this matter are subject to a fine of a thousand dollars or to a year's sentence on the public works.

The law in question was enacted at the last session of General Assembly. It is a good law both in its immediate and its ulterior purpose. Sound business requires that the State should have a definite accounting of the funds received and spent in the transaction of its affairs. Public officials are not acting as individuals but as agents of the community. The people are entitled to know how every dollar of their money, whether derived through taxation or fees, is expended. The Legislature, in order to proceed wisely and efficiently in dealing with fiscal matters, should have at its disposal detailed and comprehensive information of this character. It was for this among other reasons that there was enacted a law requiring all officials receiving fees to submit quarterly statements to the comptroller and requiring the comptroller to compile all these reports.

The law was also intended to furnish data upon which the succeeding Legislature, if it thought wise, could frame a general act establishing the salary system instead of the fee for county officials. Regardless of the merits or the demerits of such a law, these reports should be carefully kept; for, only through such a device can the Legislature secure the definite information which it ought to have in considering a bill to this effect.

The first quarter of the current year expired March the thirty-first. Though a majority of State and county officials promptly submitted their reports to the comptroller general, something like a hundred of them, it seems, have not yet done so. The simple announcement of the facts in the case should serve to bring all delinquents to an accounting.

It was Jack Prince that brought that rain.

Atlanta now has a population of about 200,000 people, largely Presbyterians.

They talk about commencement oratory, but which kind—the student or the alumnus?

Motion Picture Censorship.

The ordinance recently passed by Council and now approved by the Mayor, constituting the trustees of Carnegie library a board of censors for motion picture shows, is a wholesome and useful measure. It should, and doubtless will, commend itself not only to the public in whose interest it was enacted but also to the producers and exhibitors who represent the worthy and really substantial side of motion picture enterprises.

Under the terms of the new ordinance, the Library board is given jurisdiction over the films and also the vaudeville features presented in motion picture theaters in Atlanta. The board may prohibit the exhibition of a picture or an act which it considers harmful to public morals, decency or welfare; and a violation of such an order makes the offender liable to a forfeiture of his license.

Such regulation, it may safely be assumed, will not be perverted into any Puritanical or blue law procedures. But it will make effective the principles of good taste and moral healthfulness. In a great majority of progressive and right-minded cities, similar laws have been enacted. The Atlanta ordinance will be welcomed by the thoughtful public and, we are sure, will enlist the hearty co-operation of representative motion picture houses.

It's a long honeymoon that doesn't get eclipsed.

And with it all, the Atlanta baseball team remains near the top if not directly on it.

It's as sad to see a rich man with a poor appetite as it is to see a poor man who can't get to the lunch counter.

It seems to be the general opinion that cotton, now that rain has come, will make ready for a bumper yield.

The Task Before the Powers.

Peace having been virtually concluded between Turkey and the Balkan States, it remains for the concert of European Powers to settle the question of war indemnities, define territorial boundaries and adjust such differences as now exist or may develop among the Allies themselves.

The Bulgarian minister of finance is reported as saying that the Balkans will demand eighty million dollars from Turkey as compensation for the losses they have sustained. How the weakened and impoverished Ottoman government could shoulder such a burden, it is rather difficult to conceive. The Powers are doubtless disposed to deal with Turkey in this connection as leniently as they may.

In respect to territory, however, the Allies will probably get the greater part of what they demand. The fall of Adrianople settled decisively in their favor what promised at one time to be the most difficult and delicate issue the diplomats would have to consider. Indeed, the Allies have fairly won the major portion of Turkey's European realm. It is generally conceded that the Sultan's domain will be narrowed to Constantinople and a small sphere of influence about the Bosporus. Such differences as may arise in regard to Turkish and Balkan boundaries will be comparatively minor—except perhaps in the case of certain Aegean islands—and can be easily reconciled.

But issues among the Allies themselves will call for more painstaking treatment. Bulgaria, Servia and Greece are each ambitious to build up their individual power. They have stood stanchly together during the war, subordinating their particular to their common interests. But now that the immediate pressure of circumstances is removed, they are disposed to assert their individual claims. So long, however, as the larger Powers act in unison, they can enforce their judgment; and there is every indication that they will continue so to act, at least until present Balkan problems are satisfactorily worked out.

An international force is now occupying Scutari. The fact that the Powers are acting together on this mission, instead of leaving it to any one of their number, means that Austria has assented to the general plan and that Russia, too, has given it her sanction. The situation is thus greatly simplified and is relieved of many dangers that once threatened. So long as the powerful nations—England, France and Russia, Germany, Austria and Italy—move together in these matters, their suspicions and jealousies one of the other will be kept in the background and their will will be supreme. But should one of them, or a particular group of them, attempt to proceed independently, trouble would undobtedly arise.

Besides settling issues between the Allies and Turkey and among the Allies themselves, the Powers must also agree upon a government for Albania. They have already determined that this territory shall be an autonomous State and at least nominally independent. It was in this connection that the Montenegrin problem came about and here the designs of Austria are manifest. Just how Albania will be disposed of remains to be seen. Much interesting history has been made in the Balkans during the past seven months and much more, it would seem, remains to be written.

Welcome the Returning Shriners.

The return of the Atlanta Shriners from Dallas will be an incident well worthy of celebration. The winning of the 1914 meeting of the Imperial Council was a victory that has already meant much and that will mean still more to the city's prestige. In the campaign for that trophy, the Shrine patrol played a brilliant and distinctive part. Its members should be greeted on their home-coming with a characteristic Atlanta welcome.

Atlanta Shriners are preparing to be present in a body at the Terminal station when the delegation arrives. Hundreds who are not Shriners will doubtless join in making the return of the victors a characteristic Atlanta welcome.

Editorials In Brief

The old-fashioned congressman's idea of pulling off something real smart and clever was illustrated in the senate yesterday when a senator from Louisiana tried to put the administration in a hole by reading a letter from some unknown Democrat of Michigan denouncing free sugar.—Kansas City Star.

It is not magnanimity but policy that actuates the British government in permitting the Suffragette to continue publication. Militancy has played hob with its circulation, and if let alone it bids fair to stop for want of motive power.—New York Sun.

It would be well for California to look a little ahead and to consider whether the assertion of such a right at this time would pay in the end. For this reason we hope that the referendum may be invoked on the bill, so as to give the California voters a chance to take a sober second thought on the subject.—Baltimore Sun.

NOW

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.
(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

I am glad I am alive and that I am living in these opening years of the twentieth century. For these present times are the greatest and best the world has ever seen.

The Greek thanked the gods he was a Greek and not a barbarian, a free man and not a slave, a man and not a woman. I shall content myself with thanking God I am living in the nineteen hundreds and not in any previous century.

Men on earth today have more good food to eat and purer water to drink than ever before. Sailors can carry canned tomatoes and succotash where formerly they could only take salt horse and weevilly biscuit. I can stop in at the butcher shop, get a beefsteak and grill it on my gas stove in a jiffy, instead of having to build a fire and wait for a bed of coals. If I breakfast at home there are at hand any one of thirteen kinds of scientifically prepared cereals, instead of only the corn meal and hominy of the days of our fathers.

We have better underwear, stockings and outer garments than Richard Coeur de Lion or J. Caesar ever dreamed of.

We get purer water out of the kitchen faucet than grandpa ever drew up with his old oaken bucket.

The civilized world is freer from pests than ever before; the terrible black deaths of former ages are now unknown.

Whereas, it used to be a serious and most unpleasant undertaking to journey from New York to Philadelphia, one can go these days around the circle of the earth, travelling as comfortably as if he were in a city hotel.

We are living in the days of graft exposures; in former times graft was even worse, only it wasn't exposed.

Above all this, it is the era of the Common People. They are getting forward, saucy, impudent, even rampageous; whereat I rejoice. From East to West they are arising and smiting. They have shipped royalty out of Portugal; they have tweaked the distinguished nose of aristocracy in England; they are threatening to oust William's family and military bureaucracy from Germany and turn the government over to the people, who pay for it; they are in the saddle in France and giving that country the best government it ever had; they are raising the Old Nick in the Balkans against Turkish tyranny, and they have even turned ancient and fixed China upside down.

In the United States of America the welfare of the common man is ceasing to be politics and becoming religion.

And, speaking of religion, was there ever an age before this when moral sap was flowing so free, when righteousness was more universally appealed to, when ethics was less in control of hierarchic close corporations, when humbuggery was more sure to be shot to pieces by ridicule, and when the river of God flowed so freely through the streets of the city?

Thank God for Now!

Keep Hoke Smith in the Senate

From the Nashville (Ga.) Herald.

The Nashville Herald has been watching Hoke Smith's career in the United States senate, and we are moved to say that he deserves re-election, and for the first time we expect to support him. We have always lined up just as strongly as we knew how with the Joe Brown faction in Georgia, and we have no fight to make on our crowd now, but justice and fairness prompts us to "acknowledge the corn" and come out for Hoke for re-election to the senate.

Captain Barnacle's Travelogues

BY JOHN H. WISHAR

"Ostriches are wonderful birds, and their eggs are even more wonderful, for it was a cargo of ostrich eggs that saved twenty-five passengers and the crew of the steamer Hammerlock which went down near the equator and about a thousand miles off the South American coast," said Captain Barnacle. "This was the first steamer I ever commanded. We were bound from Umul-emrey, on the west coast, for Baltimore. I had carried a general cargo to African ports, and was ordered to bring home a load of ostrich eggs, which were to be sent to California to start a big ostrich farm. There was exactly 1,200 of these eggs, and they were all so big they practically filled the ship's hold. You know they are like a cannon ball, and didn't have to be packed. All we did was roll them in the hold.

"Well, I also got orders to bring home a party of twenty-five tourists who had missed their regular boat. Now I didn't like this order, as the steamer was old and wasn't built for carrying passengers, but orders are orders, so I stowed them away as best I could. But I smelled trouble as soon as I saw those tourists on board, and sure enough we had bad weather from the time we weighed anchor. The Hammerlock was one of the first iron vessels ever built and she soon started to leak. This was discovered in the height of the hurricane. The water started to pour in, and I gave all up for lost. The boats and rafts had been swept overboard, and there was no chance to escape drowning. I was standing on the bridge waiting for the ship to go down when I glanced below. That one glance gave me an idea. Like a flash I was below and had the crew start throwing up ostrich eggs. The storm went down and the sea quickly became calm. But it was too late to save the vessel.

"I ordered every passenger to grab an ostrich egg and jump overboard, which they did, and the water was soon filled with men and women floating around on these eggs. I kept the crew throwing the eggs overboard until the entire 1,200 was floating alongside. Then I grabbed a few casks of water, a few coils of rope, and a sack of grain and leaped just as the ship went down.

"Well, sir, there we were floating around the middle of the Atlantic on those ostrich eggs. The passengers and crew bemoaned their fate, but I knew what I was doing. The tropical sun was so hot it fairly scorched us and in a little while I heard a pecking inside one of the eggs. The same thing happened to all the eggs that weren't covered, and before long a little ostrich poked his head out through the shell of each egg.

"I quickly tied them together and fed them plenty of corn and they sat on the water just like ducks. The sun was so hot it made their plumes grow so fast that before night they all had fine feathers.

"Well, sir, for two weeks we lived on ostrich eggs and plucked feathers out of these young ostriches. I used the empty shells to build a big raft, which held all the passengers, and when I found these marine ostriches had web feet I made them tow us clear to Montevideo, where I sold the plumes for enough to get us all back to Boston and leave a nice little balance for me besides."

THE INCOME TAX

X.—THE LAW OF 1894.
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

When the Democrats undertook the work of revising the tariff after the second election of Grover Cleveland, very many of them felt that the proper course to pursue was to take off many duties that had been bringing in revenue and to raise an amount equivalent to the lost revenue by the imposition of an income tax. The first suggestion in favor of such a tax came from President Cleveland, in his annual message. He said he was satisfied that the proposed new tariff, in the near future, would produce enough revenue to take care of the expenditures, but that there might be a deficit for the time being. He stated that "the committee" had decided to provide against any temporary deficiencies in revenue by adding a few internal revenue taxes, including a small tax upon incomes derived from certain corporate investments. He added that they had the double merit of being absolutely just and easily borne and of being easy to remit without disturbing business just as soon as they were no longer needed.

It is presumed that "the committee" to which Mr. Cleveland referred was the ways and means committee of the house, although Senator David B. Hill declared afterward that neither the committee nor the Democrats who were members of it had agreed upon any income tax or other internal taxes. The probabilities are Mr. Cleveland had consulted with William L. Wilson and a few other members of the committee, and did not mean what his message seemed to imply.

When the house received the tariff bill from the ways and means committee there was no reference in it to an income tax. The tariff bill was debated for several weeks, and as late as February 22, 1894, Chairman Wilson declared that no income tax amendment had yet been received by him. Seven days later Representative Benton McMillin, of Tennessee, introduced an income tax amendment. It did not set any date for the termination of the proposed law, however, and it provided not only a tax on net incomes, but on all dividends in scrip or money, and on all interest paid on indebtedness for which bonds had been issued. There was very little debate upon the income tax amendment, and three days after its introduction it was passed as a part of the tariff bill.

The bill went to the senate the next day, and remained with the finance committee for some six weeks. When the senate took up the consideration of the tariff act it considered it paragraph by paragraph, and it was not until the latter part of June that the income tax provision was reached. Senator Peffer, of Kansas, Populist, offered some amendments providing for the exemption of mutual life insurance companies, building and loan associations and other institutions of like character. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, offered an amendment excluding the salaries of federal judges, and Senator Peffer also offered an amendment providing that the income tax should be graduated in proportion to income. Senator Hill, of New York, attacked the amendment, and he was joined by several other senators, but this opposition was easily brushed aside. The first amendment adopted was one limiting the collection of the tax to the 1st of January, 1900. Many amendments were offered designed to nullify the rigor of the tax upon corporations and to render less inquisitorial the methods of collection of the tax and some of them were accepted.

After that the income tax provision traveled along with the tariff law through the tortuous channels of conferences on the disagreeing votes of the two houses. It finally passed, and along with the other parts of the bill became the law without the signature of President Cleveland, although he warmly favored that part of the measure.

The law was a comprehensive one, made, it was thought, to conform to the decisions of the courts from the beginning of the government down to the time of its enactment. It provided a flat rate of 2 per cent upon the incomes of all citizens and of every other person residing in the United States, where such incomes exceeded $4,000 a year; and the tax was to be levied only on the portion of the income in excess of $4,000. Foreigners residing abroad and having property interests in the United States were required to pay taxes upon their incomes from such property.

There was explicit provision in the law as to how incomes should be estimated. United States bonds were not to be considered which provided by the law of their issuance that both principal and interest should be exempt from federal taxation, but all other interest was. But when it is considered that the tax was only 2 per cent, it amounted to less than one-eighth of 1 per cent on the principal value of a 6 per cent investment. In estimating income the profits derived from the sale of lands bought within two years previous had to be reckoned. The profits of all sales of live stock, wheat, hay and other products of the farm had to be counted as income, but as the farmer who makes $4,000 a year net income is the exception he would hardly have felt the imposition of the tax. It also amounted to an inheritance tax, for the law reckoned inheritance as a matter of income.

The tax was intended to be a net income tax so far as businesses, professions and vocations were concerned, and practically so in the case of the farmer. The law recited that in computing incomes the necessary expenses actually incurred in carrying on a business, profession or occupation, should be deducted. Thus, a lawyer was entitled to deduct the cost of maintaining his law practice, the doctor the cost of keeping his office, his carriages and the like. A man who received $10,000 income and had to pay out $7,000 of it in interest had no income tax to pay.

All persons having an income of more than $5,500 a year were required in order to the proper authorities a list or return of the items making it up. Neglect to make this list or return gave the tax collector or his assistant the right to fix the income from the best information available and to add 50 per cent to the amount of the tax as a penalty for the failure. This penalty was also prescribed for those who failed truthfully to state their incomes.

Such portions of incomes as were derived from dividends of corporations, joint stock companies, and other similar organizations, which had paid income taxes upon their net earnings were exempted from inclusion in taxable incomes, in order to prevent double taxation. Building and loan associations, savings banks, charitable, religious and educational organizations, mutual insurance companies, and states, counties and municipalities were exempted from the tax. In the case of government officials the tax was to be collected at its source—that is, deducted from the pay envelopes before they were passed to the officials whose names they bore.

Behold the flowering dogwood—
Lovely bloom of the springtide;
Resplendent in its blossoming,
Queenly dame of the hillside.

Prolific are its flowers gay,
All in whitish row;
Each blossom haughtily displayed
As if 'twere all for show.

Ha, soon will come the leaves pretty,
That turn red in the fall,
And hide the fruit—berries scarlet—
The crowning gift of all.

Here's to the "dogwood's" usefulness,
Its properties well known;
Long may it reign, a fair May queen,
In shade or sunshine grown.

IN ATLANTA'S SCHOOLS

TECH HIGH LOSES FAST CONTEST TO BOYS' HIGH

BY D. G. THOMAS.

Tech Hi dropped the second game to Boys' Hi Wednesday, 4 to 0. The game was no walkaway as the score might lead one to surmise. Boys' Hi had all the "break" of luck and this, together with two costly errors charged to the Tech Hi players, proved their undoing.

Spurlock, the first man of the opposition to face Weston, pasted a scorer to the score board. It was a peach of a hit, but would have been good for only three bags had it been fielded clearly by tl. Tech Hi outfield. As it was, he made th circuit just as the ball was relayed back to the plate.

In the third Reynolds walked, stole second and went to third on Armistead's out. At this point Hair tossed the ball over Weston's head and "Hal" romped home.

Again in the sixth ragged work by Tech Hi resulted in two more tallies. Singles by Spurlock and Reynolds, and an error by Tech Hi's receiver caused these two scores.

For Tech Hi, Weston pitched an excellent game, allowing four hits and striking ut ten men. He also secured one of the three hits garnered from Fox's benders.

Fox also pitched an excellent game, allowing three hits and causing nine Tech Hi batters to swing at space. A team with Fox and Weston as its hurling staff would certainly be a formidable outfit. Spurlock also played allprep ball, securing two hits and fielding his position faultlessly.

Score:			R.	H.	E.
Boys' Hi	...100	102 00x—	4	5	1
Tech Hi	...000	000 000—	0	3	6

The report cards were given out Monday. Each class leader for the year was presented with a picture. Those who received pictures were: Ollie May Dickerson, 1-A; Rosa Lee Chambers, 1-B; Wilmer Morris, 2-A; Eunice Wheeler, 2-B; Wilmer Morris, 3-A; Johnnie M. Maner, 3-B; Amanda Maner, 4-A; Nellie Cawhern, 4-B; Fannie Mae York, 5-A; Mary Norman, 5-B; Catherine Holsenbeck, 6B; Bernice Wallace, 7; Wessel Childress, 8. In making the presentations Miss Pitts said that numbers of other children had done their best, and that these had already received a great reward in strengthened intellectuality. She told us the beautiful parable of the talents and drew especial attention to the fact that the man who had only five talents got the same reward as the man who had ten. We may never win what the world calls prizes, our names may never be written high on the roll of fame, but if we have used the talents God has given us to the very best advantage, we have done all that could be expected of us.

Just as we had hoped to put in four weeks of steady work on such essentials as "readin', ritin', and 'rithmetic," along comes another body of civic workers and offers prizes for the best compositions in the schools on "Fly Prevention." Tut, tut, gentlemen, 'you know very well that "specialists" have been at work on this problem long before we ever saw the light, and each one has owned himself defeated. Surely you don't expect us to find the key to the puzzle, unless you are taking Matt. 21:16 literally.

The schools are getting to be clearing houses for the distribution of every social and civic notion that springs up in the public mind. Give the children of to-day time to build a solid foundation in the studies that stand for mental strength, and the men and women of tomorrow will be able to grapple intelligently with all these perplexing problems.

J. W. Peacock, 2-B grade, won a ribbon in the racing contest on Field day.

Miss Milledge visited the school Monday. All the primary grades received good reports, but the "blue ribbon" went to the 4-B grade. The director said there was not a false note, the tempo was perfect, and the voices as sweet as the fabled Sirens of the long ago.

The attendance banner was captured by the 4-A grade.

"What kind of time does 'C' stand for," asked the musical director of a tiny girl recently. Four months had not dimmed the memory of this little maiden for the joyous season that brings Santa Claus with his burden of gifts so she replied gleefully, "Christmas time." I think she deserved a star.

PRYOR STREET

Our school stands pre-eminent for its beautiful yard with blooming flowers and our windows overflowing with pretty window boxes. Our improvement club has purchased another lot of flowers to make our school look even better. A lady visiting our school some time ago asked if the city kept up our yard, it was so finely kept. But we have no janitors and our children do the work. With our shade trees our school is indeed very pleasing to the eye.

Our fourth and fifth grades are planning a picnic to pass into the annals of history at an early date. Their enthusiastic teachers, Miss Nell Parks and Miss Hearne, are alive on the subject and it is a foregone conclusion that it will be an immense success.

The carpenters came out this week and made us seven artistic benches for our pupils to rest their weary bodies upon at recess. The girls are terribly agitated, however, because the boys have five and they only two. The correspondent deeply sympathizes with them, for we believe in equal rights for all.

Jessie Powell, of the fifth grade, has missed only one word in oral spelling for five whole months. Don't you wish you could do as well?

Miss Milledge was welcomed by our lower grades a few days ago. For their fine musical work the third and fourth grades were given "excellent." The fourth, she said, was her star music grade in the city and had more excellent stars than any other.

We have some very studious pupils at our school. Some of the smartest boys and girls in the various grades are: Will McMury, Pauline Thomas, Catherine Pennington, Marion Roebuck, Aivan Butler, Marion Maxwell, Maybelle Archibald and Virgil Newton.

We are busy finishing up the school year and all the grades except the eighth look forward to a higher grade after vacation, but the eighth mourns that it will soon have to leave dear old Pryor.

OUT FOR ANOTHER PENNANT

Formwalt team of the Public School league, which is tied with Edgewood for the championship of the city. The team has won the cup every season since the Grammar School league was organized, and bids fair to make this the fifth consecutive time.

FORMWALT TEAM'S POEM.

That we have a team
We'll show Edgewood yet;
Put your money on Formwalt,
T'will be a good bet.

Here is the line-up,
The way that it goes;
Altogether, now, boys,
Let's go on our toes.

Baldwin, right fielder,
The boy with the wing;
When he leans up against it,
Good night, how it sings.

Second baseman, Dozier,
Strikes out in a hurry;
But he can field,
So, shouldn't worry.

Morgan, first base,
The best in the game;
As a captain last year,
He won his fame.

Smith, our catcher,
A good one, too;
Try to steal second,
And he'll get you.

Wilhelm, third base,
A trifle tall;
But when he hits it,
He loses the ball.

A pretty young man;
When he touches a ball,
It never leaves his hand.

Shortstop, Hawkins,
The one who can hit;
If he misjudges a grounder,
He throws down his mit.

Tutwiler, center fielder,
Just the right sort;
Tut, we call him,
Only for short.

One more place,
I hear the recess bell;
This is Wallace,
He fits in well.

DAN W. DOZIER.

BOULEVARD

Both the concert and Gleid day have gone by successfully, and we have once again settled down to our daily routine. We hope that those examples of our work in music and physical culture have fully convinced the public of the efficiency of our directors. Those are two branches of our work which we all love. We enjoyed the extra hour given us on Tuesday and were glad that we had been present at the exercises.

For two successive weeks the eighth grade won the attendance banner, and we were rewarded for our presence Tuesday morning when the picture for May, a beautiful reproduction of Pharaoh's horses, was brought in to us by one of the eighth grade boys.

Our ball team has been doing good work this term and we are quite proud of them. In ten out of the fourteen games they have played, they came out victorious. On Thursday they will play the team from Peoples Street school. Thursday's game between Edgewood and Formwalt will determine which is to have the pennant. It is natural that we should take up for the school on our side of town, so here's hoping that Edgewood is successful.

There remains only a few days of school this term, at least it seems that way to us. Some are glad, while others are sorry to leave. June 6th will end the eighth grade grammar school life. Those children of that class who do good work the next three weeks will not have to take the examinations for June. Some are at work to escape these finals, as they might be termed.

There are prizes offered for the best essays on "The Prevention of Flies." Of course, we would be proud if any member of our school were successful, but we are not very enthusiastic over it. The weather is so warm that anything outside our regular course is burdensome. We will be glad enough when next Wednesday is past.

THE EVENING STORY

Susan

(Copyright, 1913, by W. Werner.)

THE Spencers had no thought of being cruel to Susan when they took her out of an orphan asylum and into their own home. In fact, if the truth be told, they had little thought of Susan in one affair. They wanted a girl to help about the place, and Sunsan, though only ten, was the oldest child the old asylum boasted.

Mr. Spencer showed his bank account and gave references. Mrs. Spencer looked the child over.

"A little lame, ain't she?" she observed.

The matron nodded and drew her aside.

"Yes, she's lame, poor little thing, and——"

"Does it hurt her to walk?"

"I don't think so. I suppose she would scarcely be able to walk as far as another child, but she has never complained that it hurt her. She's a good child—docile and obliging. She has been here seven months and I have observed her closely. It is a sad case. Her father and mother were killed and she was injured in a railway accident when she was a little thing."

"We won't be lonesome no more."

"Is that why she's lame?"

"Yes. Then," went on the matron, as if she had not been interrupted, "an aunt took her. There was a great love between them.

"What did she go an' give her up for, then?" again broke in Mrs. Spencer.

"Her eyes gave out and she had to go to an asylum for the blind. I believe it was said an operation would have saved her sight, but they had no money. She said it was the most pitiful thing she had ever seen. I've often imagined it myself. Death would have been preferable, to the woman at least."

"Yes," assented Mrs. Spencer. "And what about the child? Didn't she feel the breakin' away none?"

"We thought for a time we would lose her," said the matron simply, "but now she seems half way content. She is an affectionate child."

They went back to Susan and found her bonneted and cloaked, ready to go. The neighbor who brought the child cried when she told about the parting. She cried and clung to the matron at parting.

But she soon seemed to fit into her new surroundings. The farm was a pretty place—the prettiest she had ever sun. Susan said, after gravely observing it. The tasks set for her were light ones, but they were many. In the summer she was to go to school.

"Be you wantin' to go to school, Susan?" asked Mrs. Spencer.

"If you want me to," answered the child.

"Mercy on us, child, don't you know? Don't you want nothin' yourself?"

At that her eyes filled suddenly and she did not speak.

As time went on they found that she was not a talkative child and they never tried to make her one. They knew little about children. They had married late in life and had none of their own.

Susan did what was expected of her and a little more. The little lame feet were very willing ones. She took almost entire charge of the chickens, she dusted, made beds, ran errands, did a hundred things.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer congratulated themselves on taking her.

"She's a quiet little thing," Mr. Spencer said to his wife, "an' she gets a head done. We'll miss her when she goes to school."

"Yes," his wife replied, "we'll miss her more'n I kin say. She's been hemmin' sheets for me an' she done well. She does everything she's told to do an' never says a word. I hope she ain't one o' them still waters that run deep."

"Whatever made you think that?"

"Well, Mrs. Bentley was over an' I was prasin' Susan—not to her face, you kin depend. An' while we was talkin' Susan came in. She'd got through with a sheet she was doin' and wanted some more work. I give her a couple more. As soon as she was gone I showed her work to Mrs. Bentley—all nice little stitches, most as even as I could 'a' done myself. But Mrs. Bentley didn't no more'n glance at it. I was huffed a little, for I'm real proud of all I've been teachin' her. She'll be a master fine housekeeper some o' these days. I told her some o' the things she's done an' she didn't pay no attention. Then she said: 'Tain't natural for young ones to be so quiet. You ought to see mine. Look out for her. Still water runs deep.' An' she told me a case about some people who took a child same as she, who never talked much or tried to get acquainted. An' one day she tried to burn 'em in their beds. It kind o' settled on my mind."

Mr. Spencer said, "Pshaw!" and laughed a bit, but whether they would or no the words refused to be forgotten. They began to suspect Susan of deceit, and watched her with sharpened eyes. And one day their vigilance was rewarded. Mrs. Spencer saw her slyly concealing pieces of bread and meat from the table in her apron pocket.

"The poor little thing!" she said to herself. "God forgive me if she ain't been gettin' enough to eat. Still, she'd ought to 'a' knowd she could have had anything for the askin'."

In the morning she cut slices of bread and meat and bread and jelly and put them on a plate in the pantry. "If you git hungry any time, Susan," she said, "lest help yourself to anything around. I fixed some sandwiches for you in here."

And yet it was but the following day that she again saw her slipping food slyly in her apron. A moment after Susan was gone.

"Next time I'll foller," said Mrs. Spencer grimly.

Mrs. Osgood, the drawing director, will visit the school next Monday.

The second grade got the highest in attendance this week.

We are all very busy thinking about the composition on "The Fly," and we hope we will get one of the prizes.

PEEPLES STREET SCHOOL

The plaques given to us Field day proved so much more beautiful than we expected, that we are prouder than ever of having won them. We heartily thank the donors of these plaques for instituting a new feature in the athletic ork of the schools.

We carried off a goodly number of the Field day prizes, and are very proud of the children who won them for us. Little Augusta Gregory, of the first grade, came out triumphant with a blue ribbon in one of the races. Florence Cotton, of the third grade, won second prize and Martha Hull, of the fourth grade, received the yellow ribbon in the race in which she was entered. Those who represented the school in the grammar grade athletic contests were: DeEtte Calhoun and Mitchell Benton in class A, and Laura Woodruff and Cecil Burnett in class B. The second prize in class A was won by Mitchell Benton.

Dr. Toepel has made a wonderful success of the athletic work of the schools this year, making the drills and exercises sources of pleasure and enjoyment as well as of health. He has worked untiringly for the good of *the school children, and has succeed*ed in making the school children of Atlanta as strong and healthy as those of any other city.

So here's to our next Field day—that of 1914—may it be as successful and joyous an occasion as the one which has just passed!

There's far too much excitement in this school now. Exams are all over, and we have no worry. Rehearsals continue for the play, "Endymion," in which several prominent Atlanta girls are to take part, among them being Misses Mary Griffith and Maymie Clyburn. Each senior has received twenty-five complimentary tickets to enclose in the invitations.

Miss Sara Liddell entertained at a dance at her home on Greenwood avenue.

EDGEWOOD TIES THE COUNT IN GRAMMAR SCHOOL SERIES

While the Formwalt boys were able to get away with the first game in easy style, Edgewood showed a decided improvement in form and batting yesterday, and this, coupled with the weakening of Wallace, the Formwalt flinger, gave the Edgewood lads the second game of the city grammar school championship series at Marist. The games now stand one all, and the deciding fray will be staged on the same grounds the first of next week.

Yesterday's contest was not as close as the game on Friday, the Edgewood team counting nine tallies to two for Formwalt, while the hits stood ten for the winners, with just half that number credited to the losers. The individual star of the fray yesterday was Rives, second baseman of the Edgewood team. He was credited with five at bats, and rapped safely three of those times, one of them for two bases. Smith, the Edgewood pitcher, also got a two-bagger.

Errors probably played a large part in the defeat of the Formwalt team, seven miscues being racked up against them, while only one of the winners booted.

WALKER STREET SCHOOL

Our concert, which took place on Friday evening at the auditorium, was enjoyed by all who attended. This concert was given by the pupils of the eighth grade, assisted by several of the seventh. We enjoyed the good talk given by Mr. Slaton, and especially when he said that those who took part on this occasion would be allowed to leave school an hour earlier on one of the days of the following week. Miss Harralson conducted the music and Mr. Slaton read the program.

The hearts of the members of our little second grade pupils have been saddened this week by the recent death *of one of their classmates, Inez Mc*Mullen. This little girl was very much loved by the members of the school who knew her as well as by her classmates. She was ill three weeks and died last Saturday afternoon. Our hearts go out in sympathy to her grief-stricken loved ones.

The pupils of the seventh grade have been absent this term. Jack Collier, Zelma Gills, Annie Mae Clotfelter and Emma Mai O'Connor have made 100 in department all the term.

Last week of third grade B. Gladys Thayer stood head in spelling. Ollie Mae Pittman, Mamie Hurst, Nellie Moore and James Hurst, of third A, stood up last in the spelling match which they had on Friday. The first section of this same grade received the most stars in spelling.

DAVIS STREET

We won three prizes field day. We did honor on Tuesday to our victorious contestants, Ruth Mooney, Vera McQueen and J. W. Frye, by rolling the prize winners in wheelbarrows decorated with the school colors. The eighth grade boys led the way, rolling the wheelbarrows. After the entire school had marched around through the park, we assembled in the tennis court. There we sang "America" and "Dixie." By that time our half-hour recess was up, and we went back to our lessons.

We are so proud of our flower gardens. Most of the plants have already come up and some of them are in bloom. Wednesday, Mr. Walter Cooper and Mr. Stamps came to see us and brought the check for the $25 which we won by getting the most signatures on clean-up day. We told you we were going to win that prize. We had already planned to get it. We haven't yet decided what we will do with the money but we think it will make the first payment on our new school with it, if the finance committee of course, will accept the contribution and donate the rest.

HILL STREET SCHOOL.

The following children of the sixth grade had perfect lessons in geography for the entire month: Carrie Allen, Lois Bell, Edna Hamilton, Marcelline Hunerkopf, Virginia Juett, Marion Williams, Annie Zuckerman, Amie Mewborn and Frank Hilsman.

The children of the 1-A are proud of their "excellent" they received in music. Ruth Brown, Lillian Mitchell, Besale of the 2-B grade had a picnic at Grant park last Thursday after school let out.

The honor roll in the fifth grade for the month of May was: Ruth Briggs, Annie May Hilsman, Estelle Ansley, Elizabeth Wooding, Evelyn Clements, Herman Jernigan, Lucretia Abbott, Ruth Brown, Lillian Mitchell, Josephine Smith, Jessie Cagle, James Newman, Alva Marshall, Madison Massey and Ruth Bradbury.

We are going to work hard and try to win the prize offered by Dr. Claude A. Smith, city bacteriologist, for the best composition written on "How to Prevent the Fly."

The children of the 2-A are earnest little workers. They get the spelling banner often, the reward for lines nearly every week and the attendance banner is usually in their room. They had 100 in attendance last week.

DATES FOR FINALS AT BOYS' HIGH ARE ANNOUNCED

The dates for the annual finals at Boys' High have been announced by the faculty ,and the unlucky ones are supposedly hard at work in preparation for the test that is to come. The senior Greek class has made an exceptionally fine record in this subject. As it now stands, there is not a member of the class who will have to take the final examination in "Dago." As a whole, the seniors have stood well in all departments of the school work, and it is hoped that the whole class of sixty-five, the largest that has ever been in the school, can be graduated. This would be a record performance, for up to this time there has always been one or two boys who have failed to a receive their dips after four years of hard study. To pass in any subject, those who have to take the finals are obliged to make at least 50 per cent. A general average of 75 is required for graduation, and a mark of 69 per cent in each separate subject.

The finals will start on Friday, May 23, and last till June 2, just three days before the graduating exercises.

The place of holding the exercises has been changed from the Atlanta to the Grand theater, and a committee of twelve members from the senior class has been appointed to arrange for all the details. Contrary to all previous customs, the money for the exercises this year will be secured from the sale of advertising space on the programs, and this committee has been charged to attend to the sale of space. The members of the committee are: Cotney, chairman; Lochridge, Cooledge, Candler, Lipscomb, Rosser, Calhoun, Armistead, Neuschulten, Torrance, Manning and Lowenthal.

NORTH AVENUE

On Friday, May 8, the seventh grade invited the fifth grade to two debates in the auditorium.

The program was:

Music.

Debate—"Resolved, That the Georgia Railway and Power Company Should Not Use Tallulah Falls for Water Power." Affirmative: Walter Dobbins, Van Burgen, John Cameron; negative: Cobb Torrence, Tom Pates, Hobart Ford.

May Song—Seventh Grade.

Piano Solo—Frank Smith.

Debate—"Resolved, That Love is Greater Than Money." Affirmative, Virginia Martin, Martha Jones, Cora Frances Johnson; negative, Clare Louise Scott, Roberta Quick, Katherine Vaughan.

Piano Solo—Catherine Gilbert.

The judges gave their decision in favor of the negative in the first debate, and of the affirmative in the second. Both were exceedingly good, and very interesting.

The contestants in the Field day exercises in the morning were: A class, boys, Arnold Beardan; B class, Lewis Lloyd; A class, girls, Elizabeth Vaughan; B class, Edna Lumey. Those from the primary grades who took part in the races in the afternoon, were M. J. Yarbrough, Ralph Williams, fourth grade; Margaret Cochran, Craig Shepard, third grade; Robert Campbell, Annie Moore, second grade.

The prize winners were Elizabeth Vaughan, silver pin; M. J. Yarbrough, blue ribbon; Margaret Cochran, blue ribbon; Ralph Williams, red ribbon. The fifth grade boys also received one of the plaques awarded for the best grade in work and play.

ELIZABETH Y. VAUGHAN.

LEE STREET

On Friday night the anticipated concert took place. It was a splendid success, judging from the applause of the big audience that filled the auditorium. We thank Superintendent Slaton and Miss Harralson for their appreciation of our hard work.

Field day exercises, which were held Saturday, afforded much pleasure for thousands of people who attended. The representatives of the different grades were: Second B, who took gaily roundel by the fourth grades and the flag drill by the fifth and sixth grades were beautiful.

We are very proud of Fentress Toon of third B, who took first honor in the ten-year race at Field day and also of Ida Mellriner, of second B, who took second honor in the eight-year-old race.

The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are busy on the composition about "The Fly," for which the chamber of commerce has offered prizes for the best. The hope that several children from our school will have the best.

It is very gratifying to us that the Uncle Remus association has chosen one of our prettiest young girls, Katherine Vickers, of the seventh grade, to be the queen for the May day festival to be given at the "Wren's Nest" on May 24th.

Those who have not been absent or tardy in first A are Josephine Almand and Marguerite Smith; in first B, Robert Settle and Edward Eady; in second A, Harold Smith and Margaret Sheddon; in second B, Ernest Evans and Marion Hope; in third A., Letitia Nichols, Mary Woodhall, Leonard Barker, and Newell Jones; in third B, Garner Cashr; in fourth A, Robert Burrett and Annie Lou Purvine; in fourth B, Albert Calloway, Ruth Poole and Kathleen Derrick; in fifth, Frances Almand, Raymond Wooddall and Frankie Hood; in sixth, Julia Hood and Roy Keeton; in seventh, Nora Ellison, Mary Reeves and Laura Jenkins; in eighth, Alile Wooddall, Virginia Collier and Jim Hood.

ATLANTA SELECT

The regular meeting of the Phi Gamma Literary and Debating society was held last Friday, president Goodrich presiding.

The classes are still down at hard study preparing for the final examinations to be held immediately after the return of Prof. Richardson from Chattanooga, where he will be during the Confederate Veterans' reunion. We trust he will enjoy his trip mingling with his comrades of the 60's, come back much improved.

Prof. Richardson began teaching in '66, and has held many places of honor in the schools and colleges in all sections, and unless Prof. Le Conte Stevens still lives, he is the only surviving member of the faculty of Oglethorpe university.

Our daily baseball games are still enjoyed by the boys and we have some boys that play first-class ball.

All Athens On Hand Saturday for Final College Battle

Timely Raps Downed Tech; Corley Good

Jacket Outfit Fielded in Jam-Up Style and Played Remarkable Ball, but Lost. Georgia Team Is Again Hitting in Its Old-Time Form

Hitting the ball will tell and when the University of Georgia nine Friday hit "Smooey" Eubanks for eleven safe hits, some eight of which were of the undisputable class, the red and black defeated Georgia Tech in the first of the two games at Grant field. The score was 4 to 1.

Both teams played a rather jam up article of ball, the right thing being pulled at most every turn. It was just a case of Georgia having the hitters backed up by good pitching and no matter where you see it hitting will win baseball games as played under the present rules. All season the Georgia team has been regarded as a hard hitting bunch and this was shown here Friday, the red and black bunch getting next to Eubanks for opportune hits and this lad was not hugging any slouch article of the national pastime.

Pitcher Corley showed his early season form which caused the scouts to predict a bright future for him. Ably assisted by Hutchens, who by the way is a grand college catcher, Corley hurled jam up ball all the route. He allowed just four hits and one of this quartet was somewhat of the freak variety. He was right in there with the old confidence all the while and this proved a big help to him, especially in the tight places he ran across in the third, eighth and ninth innings.

To attempt to describe the game is an impossibility. The best description is to state that it was another Tech-Georgia clash on the athletic field, which no dope will suit.

For the first three innings Pitcher Eubanks, of Tech, had the red and black bunch popping up weak outs as if he had them in the palm of his hand while the Jacket hitters were smashing them hard to the infield or outfield. Right then it looked like Tech was getting the better hurling and then all of a sudden the tide changed and the Georgia hitters began to hit the ball h ardwhile Tech let up considerably. Corley appeared to get a shade better as the game progressed while the Georgia hitters seemed able to fathom Eubanks' delivery to some extent.

WISE MOVE OF COACH.

The decided feature of the game was the wise manner in which Alex Cunningham, the Georgia coach, played his men. Admitting that Timon Bowden possessed a weak tossing arm he shoved him in right field and right there won the game. Bowden was materially interested in three of the four runs made by the red and black and at the same time did no damage by having a weak arm. He got away with four putouts, made two clean hits, once walked, scored a run and on one play was declared out at the plate after he had worked in big league style to tally on an infield out. In fact Timon Bowden does not look like a thousand dollars yet he is about the handiest man you ever saw. He is the kind that inspires confidence, is the best hitter on the Georgia club and above all he is there with his headwork all the while.

Bowden started the rally in the fourth that produced the first run; in the sixth he walked and later scored and in the eighth he tapped off another hit and was called out at the plate after a rather close play.

The young Tech team played good ball and in losing won a lot of applause. All of the boys played the best they knew how. The break in the luck was against the Jacket nine and the Heisman lits lost because the Cunningham machine is the better ball. The Tech players hit slightly under their usual form while Corley pitched the best ball he knew how. Eubanks hurled grand ball all the way but the Georgians had a few hits stored away and they would leak out just at the right minute.

Harris Cope, the Newnan football coach, who umpired the game, got in bad with a few supporters of either team but at that he called the plays as he saw them and that is what an umpire is in there for. His decisions did not have any direct bearing on the result of the game, Georgia winning because the team played better ball than did Tech. Two close plays at the plate probably took a run from each team, but these would not have changed the club that turned out a winner.

Captain Fox Montague, Jack Donaldson and Pitcher Eubanks did good fielding for the Tech nine while Celments and Jack Henderson worked best in the field for Georgia. Donaldson did Tech's best hitting while Bowden, Hutchens, Henderson and Clements were the heavy wielders of the stick for Georgia.

Every seat in the stands was occupied and the place was packed with the banks around the stadium. The receipts amounted to $1,500, which shows that over 3,000 fans paid their way past the gate keeper.

Gibbons Brothers Win Fights

SCENES AT THE GEORGIA-TECH GAME AT GRANT FIELD ON FRIDAY

AD MEN TO CONTROL GAME AT PARK ON WEDNESDAY

The Atlanta ad men have always been willing and anxious to help Atlanta and it is now up to Atlanta to help the ad men. The ball game at Ponce de Leon park on Wednesday is the time for this little aid and the larger the crowd the greater the aid.

The local baseball association has turned over the park to the Ad club for Wednesday, and big doings will be on hand. The rival teams in this big game will be Atlanta and Memphis and every member of the local club with hundreds of their friends will be on hand. The Ad club is to attend in a body, going out on motor tucks, and they again promise to raise the same kind of enthusiasm which caracterized the opening day game here.

The proceeds from the game will go towards paying the expenses of the ad men to the big national advertising convention at Baltimore on June 8 to 13. This is worthy cause enough for anyone, and the bigger the crowd the better will be the style shown by the Atlanta boys at the big Baltimore meeting.

UMPIRES

—BY JULIAN MURPHEY.

Ban B. Johnson, exalted ruler of the American league and apparently boss of all organized baseball, has turned against George Stovall, ex-manager of the St. Louis Browns, and there isn't much chance for Brother George to again get into select company. Right now Brother George is deposed as manager of the St. Louis club and prohibited from playing ball in the American league.

"Umpire baiting" is the technical charge upon which the American league head deposed the St. Louis manager, but to those on the inside it is intimated that President Johnson has had it in for the St. Louis leader for some time and made a mountain from a mole hill upon Stovall's recent *attack on Umpire Ferguson. Never be*fore has a manager been so severely dealt with for insulting, not assaulting, an umpire and there must be something back of it all.

SHOULD PROTECT UMPS.

It is all right and proper to protect the umpires, but to the extent of taking a man's job, it seems cruel, uncalled for and entirely beyond all reason. A sensible man can be made to see the error of his act by placing over a stiff fine and a suspension, just as well as if you deprive him of his living.

A great trouble with baseball in past years was the failure of the league heads to back up their umpires, the players taking every advantage of them. In more recent years, however, the players have learned better and do not bulldoze the handlers of the indicator as in the days of old. First of all they know that the public does not like such work, and secondly, that the president of the league is there to back up his umpires to the last ditch.

KAVANAUGH IS GOOD.

W. M. Kavanaugh, president of the Southern league, is one of the greatest baseball generals in the business at backing up his staff of umpires. He tells them what he wishes done and when they carry out his instructions he is always right with them, and rightfully so. Before the time of the present popular head of the circuit the umpires were always getting in bad with players, much to the detriment of the game.

One of the greatest troubles with the present umpiring staff is the inability of some of the umpires to distinguish between right and wrong and the hotheadedness of some who try to see just how many people they can displease and yet be backed by the league head. Some appear to favor one team just to get even with another, while some that we have in the Southern league do no better, simply because they do not know.

Jasper Winner

JASPER, Ga., May 17.—The Jasper team went down to Ball Ground and defeated them 8 to 7 in a ragged game of ball Saturday.

The features of the game were the twirling of the two pitchers, Little and Aaron, especially Aaron. Ball Ground's crack slabman, who struck out seventeen Jasperites, but was given miserable support by his teammates. He deserved to win. Richards, Jasper's catcher, was there at the pegging to bases, and caught a fine game.

Georgia Wild Over Victory

ATHENS, Ga., May 17.—A regular war whoop greeted the last out as it came over the telephone to the *Lyric theater here Friday, and business pick*ed up right away. Parading and painting parties were in order, and the usual calm repose of Lucy Cobb was disturbed by the shouts of the victorious Red and Black.

The enterprising man who tries to give a return of today's game in Athens would not have two people at the theater, for all of those who are able to walk came over on the Georgia-Tech special this morning to see the battle royal.

The Athens fans had it "doped" that if Georgia should lose Friday's game, Saturday's contest would be of little interest. Since, however, the team seems to have struck its stride, they look for big doings on Grant field today and all came over, everybody and his grandma.

GEORGIA ROOTERS ARE HERE; PITTS WILL OPPOSE MORRIS

With the rival bands working overtime, the Georgia and Tech baseball teams conclude their annual series at Grant field Saturday afternoon, the game starting at 3:30 o'clock, with Harris Cope doing the umpiring. The series now stands two wins for Tech and one for Georgia, and it is up to Georgia to win to get an even break, while Tech i sout for a win to take the series.

As Georgia stands a good chance to cop the Saturday game and even up the series, all Athens is today in Atlanta. Not even a street car conductor is left in the Classic City, the entire population coming over on the Georgia special (at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The big trip was planned many days ago and was made a certainty with the Georgia win of Friday.

Immediately after reaching the city the 700 Georgia rooters began the usual parade along Peachtree street. Headed by the band, the boys clad in Red and Black, took the town within a minute after they arrived at the Union station. And they will all be on hand at the *big game at Grant field Saturday after*noon.

Manager Cunningham will work Morris on the slab, and he will be opposed by Pitts, the Tech left-hander. These two met in a game last Saturday at Athens and the Tech left-hander came out the winner. Both hurled good ball, and another good game is on tap for today when they get together.

There will be no chance in either line-up, save in right field for Tech. As Pitts is to be used on the slab, Coach Heisman will doubtless work two or three different players in the right field T. Montague will probably start out at this place, and later will be succeeded by Malone and then probably Eubanks, the hurler.

If Pitts works for Tech Bowden will be kept on the bench despite the fact that he is the hardest hitter on the club. He is weak against left-handers, which means Irwin will be used.

Keep Tab on Gasoline Tank

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car company recently sent out a letter instructing their agents to be sure and let their customers know the capacity of the gasoline tank on the model of the car that they purchase.

The reason for this precaution is owing to an incident that happened to Mr. J. F. Bourquin, general manager of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company. While on an experimental tour through Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia, Mr. Bourquin happened to draw up one day in front of a little garage in a small town in Kentucky. He had driven, since noon of the day before, 250 miles, and, as the gasoline tank held sixteen gallons, and from his pre*vious test while on this tour, he found* he had averaged about eighteen miles to a gallon of gasoline, from the above facts he judged that he should have about two or three gallons of gasoline left. Rather than take a chance of running short, he left word with the garage man to fill up his gasoline tank while he went down a few doors to get a bite to eat. He returned to the garage, having finished his lunch, and asked the man how much he owed him for the gasoline. The reply was:

Long Shot at Polo Grounds

NEW YORK, May 17.—The dispute between golfers and baseball players as to whether a golf ball could be driven from the home plate at the Polo grounds over the centerfield bleachers was decided in the affirmative yesterday. Accompanied by Manager McGraw, of the Giants, who had affirmed the feat could not be accomplished, Grantland Rice, golfer and baseball writer, and Oswald Kirkby, widely known amateur golfer, went out on the field with golf equipment, and both succeeded in making the drive. Rice put over one ball in four, and Kirby two in four. The golfers drove against the wind, but the balls carried over the top of the fence, which is about fifty feet high at this point, by about fifteen feet.

A brassie was used for the drives, and it is estimated that the carry was about 200 yards. No ball player has ever been able to drive a pitched ball even into the lower part of the centerfield stand, many yards nearer the home plate.

Sewanee Lost To Prep Boys

Sewanee, Tenn., May 17.—Rain broke up a good game between Sewanee and S. P. U. yesterday in the sixth inning, leaving the score in S. P. U.'s favor to the tune of 4 to 1. The game had to stop just after Elliott, for the visitors, had knocked a home run with three men on bases. Up to that time Sewanee was leading in great shape and the rain coming prevented the Tigers from evening matters up in the remaining three innings. Carter pitched splendid ball for S. P. U., but allowed six hits in six innings, striking out seven men.

Eggleston, for Sewanee, only allowed four hits and struck out eight. The visitors made their tallies in the fifth inning when an alarm of fire was turned in and the spectators were rushing madly from the field to fight the flames. This rattled Eggleston, and to account for an otherwise "sewn up" game.

Sewanee	010 000—1	6	2
S. P. U.	000 040—4	4	1

Batteries: Sewanee, Eggleston and Dinkins; S. P. U., Carter and Sanders.

Old Leaguer Dead

LEWISTON, Me., May 16.—John J. O'Brien for many years a player in the National, Eastern and New England leagues, died tonight at the age of forty-three. O'Brien played second base. He led the New England league in batting one season. While manager of the Louisville club he was credited with bringing out Jimmy Collins, the great third baseman of the Boston National and American league clubs.

Price to Work For Crackers Against Pels

Double-Header Will Be Played Sunday and Then the Atlanta Club Will Come Home—A Good Chance for Atlanta to Begin Winning Streak

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 17.—Atlanta and New Orleans will play just one game here Saturday, the postponed affair of Friday being slated to go off in the double-header on Sunday. This double bill Sunday concludes activities in New Orleans for some time to come, Atlanta returning home while the Pelicans go on the road for a three weeks' trip.

In Saturday's game it will be McIntyre, the major leaguer, against Gilbert Price, Bill Smith's left hander. Ashgermier and Dunn are expected to back up.

The Atlanta club is right now working overtime to hit a winning stride and it is hoped such can be started in the games right here in Pelicanville. The Frank bunch has not been going well of late and it is believed Atlanta's best chance for a good start towards the top of the ladder is for several wins.

New Records Made at N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, May 17.—One new Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association record was broken here yesterday when the preliminaries were held. Lamb, of Mississippi A. and M., hurled the discus 113 feet, 5 inches, excelling the old record held by Freeland, of Vanderbilt, who made 108 feet. Louisiana State University, Vanderbilt and Tulane showed strength in the sprints, Upton, of L. S. U., won both his qualifying heats in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Coleman and Smith, of Tulane, qualified. Stahlman, of Vanderbilt, won his trial heats in the 120 and 220-yard hurdle races. In the former events Burris, of L. S. U., made the fastest time in winning a heat.

Owing to heavy rains during the morning the track was slow.

The finals will be contested Saturday.

Emory Chases Nearing End

OXFORD, Ga., May 17.—With Emory's interclass baseball race nearing a close, the standing is:

	P.	W.	L.	Pct.
Freshmen	8	6	2	.777
Sophomores	7	5	2	.714
Seniors	6	4	2	.667
Juniors	7	1	6	.142

The two games were played on Weber field Friday afternoon, both being tangled the dope column up, and leaves the winner of the rag an unknown quantity. The freshmen put one over the seniors to the song of 3 and 1, while the sophomores annexed a victory over the juniors by the tally of 7 and 1.

The first game was featured by Merritt fanning eleven, and Perryman, the New Yorker, struck out six. The only extra base drive was by Rumble for a triple.

Two home runs in one game was Porter's total in the second game. The other extra base drives went to Outler, Stokes, Crittenden and Neal.

Monday will find the freshmen and sophomores battling with the winner copping the rag, while the seniors and juniors will fight out a game—just for the schedule's sake.

DISCARDS GO GOOD

For a team that is right in the thick of the fight for the top round of the percentage table, the Nashville volunteer squad has a rather large armful of castoffs from other clubs through the circuit. More than seven of the members of the club have seen service with other teams and have been discarded because they were not considered quite good enough.

Among the discards now starring with Bill Schwartz' club you will find Clayton Perry, once with Chattanooga; Earl Fleharty, a Birmingham castoff; Eddie Noyes, traded by Chattanooga; Bill Lindwig, turned down by Mobile; Davy Calligan, let out by Atlanta; Piggy Paige, canned by both Atlanta and Montgomery, and Jud Gridley, also Montgomery.

Right now all seven of these players are turning out a jamup class of ball and most any team would be more than glad to have any one of the outfit. They are all hitting the ball and their allround good work is what is keeping the Vols right near the top.

When Newport News secured Liebs, a catcher from the Petersburg club, Catcher McRedmond was given his release. Liebs is to be used as a second man to Egan, who will be counted upon for most of the receiving.

DUNN MATCH ON SATURDAY

The golf tournament over the East Lake course for the A. L. Dunn trophy will be started Saturday afternoon. This is among the first of the big tournaments to be held during the year, and a record entry list is to be expected.

In the qualifying round gross scores will count and as many flights as fill will be played. Cups are to be given the winner in each of the flights. Match play in the first flight will be from scratch with the club handicaps applying in all others.

THE KINK IN THE MENU.

(An 18-hole golf course has at last been completed and put in perfect shape through the heart of an African forest—within the zone of the wild animal range. Sporting note.)

I rarely mind where traps yawn blind
Or bunkers guard my shot;
And shooting golf balls out of grass
I deem no fearful lot;
But when I'm stymied by a lion,
Or, pitching from a glen
I find a boa constructor curled
That's something else again.

I don't care how a course is trapped
What hazards guard the green;
I'll pike along and take my chance
Or what may loam between;
But when a bloke must play a shot
Across a leopard lie—
Great little game may be the word—
But not for this here guy.

I like the grand old Scottish game—
I like it best of all,
But if I found an elephant
Reposing on the ball,
Or pythons wiggling by the cup,
In May, June or October
I might edge in two rounds each day—
But not if I was sober.

Here's another problem. In the above case would soaking an elephant with a cleek shot be regarded as a "rub of the green"? Or merely the essence of a perfect stymie?

On the other hand one could hardly be blamed for not looking at the ball with a two-horned rhinoceros pawing up dirt directly in the path of the shot. One might almost be tempted to look up abruptly to discover just what said rhino's intentions were in regard to the next move. And then again one might not even wait long enough to think about it at all.

We call the attention of the Phillies and Dodgers to a certain development in the campaign of 1912. This is with no thought of discouraging two hustling ball clubs who have earned their right to be up where they are. BUT—a year ago the Reds at this date had won something like nineteen games and dropped five. They were then first. They finished fourth. Or as Longfellow said just a shot before us, "It is not always May." Not by five months in a pennant race.

The Reds of 1912 are not to be taken as any certain example of what is sure to take place. They merely represent the uncompromising attitude of the dope, once it begins to split with a sharp, rending crash.

THE LAW OF FATE.

Back in 1911 Walter Johnson compiled eleven straight wins and the Yanks, in sixth place, broke up his streak. Last season he had sixteen wins under his belt when the Browns, then last, ended his tour. This season with the world's shot out record in sight he bumps into the Browns again and the record passes.

It's the soft spot along the trail which generally provides the upset. The cinch bets are the ones that are rarely cashed.

Nine times out of ten we are with the umpire in whatever move he makes. But when one of these moves consists in chasing Al Bridwell from the field we begin to wonder whther or not the power conferred isn't something overplayed.

If the rest of the field of 400 were inclined to rowdiness, Bridwell alone would bring the average up to a fairly decent point.

It isn't so much a question now as to who is managing the Cubs. The query now is can any manager win a pennant with one regular pitcher whatever the status of the others may be?

Detroit and Cleveland are now looking for the bloke who suggested that Chance was leading a bunch of junk into the west lucky to win one game a fortnight. The Yanks, like the worm and barrel hoop, might have taken considerable trodding but the turn came at last.

RAY SCHALK IS SENSATION ON THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

Ray Schalk, the young American association catcher, has been almost the sensation of the American league this season. He shows even better form than in the twenty-three games he played with the White Sox at the end of the season of 1912. He finished the season with a batting average of .286, but this year he promises to go far beyond that. In the first sixteen games of the year he batted .365, leading his club.

Schalk's throwing this year is perfect. He has a snap something like that of Jimmy Archer, the great Cub catcher, for he is able to throw to bases without moving back his right foot to get a swing. The photograph shows him throwing with his toes even, proving that he can snap the ball without the swing needed by most catchers. If Schalk continues as he has begun he may equal old Billy Sullivan, for years the greatest catcher in the American league, a catcher who was usually mentioned in the class with Johnny Kling of the Cubs and Roger Bresnahan of the Giants.

BEST ROOTER THAT TECH HAS: ALWAYS BACKS ATHLETES

A. G. Allen Is Always on the Job When a Tech Athletic Team Is in Field

A. G. ALLEN.

This man is known to every student that ever entered the halls of the Georgia Tech for the past twelve years. He is the man that has seen Tech up and has seen Tech down and he says now that next fall Tech will be up and up by a big margin. So far he has never predicted a series wrong and if you will look in his forecast book, you will find that two weeks before the Georgia games of the past three years he had said that things were not going to be like they ought to be.

He has trained the athletes for Coach Heisman ever since the coach has been at the school. That is he has seen that they have had the very best eats that money can buy and that the men were fed, so as to be in the best possible condition. It was due in a great measure to his care of the team that they went so well last year against such overwhelming odds. He is the most loyal fan that has ever worn the gold and white. To miss a Tech game would be a sure ticket for him to the college at Milledeville that is not intended for people that are throughly capable of holding their destinies. When he can't go to see the team play, he has a wire put in the grand stand and there gets every play just as it is played at the grounds. For the past two years the Allen baseball matinees have been one of the most pleasant features of the Georgia-Tech series.

Incidentally he is the man that puts the Heisman in Tech. He got up the money that was necessary for the coming of the wizard to the school. Dr. W. A. Jackson and Mr. Allen were the men that conceived the idea of an athletic association and it was Mr. Allen that got up the necessary coin to induce Mr. Heisman to share his fortunes with the boys of Tech. He has been treasurer of the association ever since its founding and it is due to his clean cut methods of business that have put the association in a place that is not held by any other college association in the south. Today the Tech athletic scheme is making money. It has been on a paying basis for the past few years. Of course, no dividends or anything of that nature have been made, but with the aid of friends all bills have been paid at the end of the year. To Mr. Allen goes the credit of the keen buying that gives Tech the name of being the best equipped team in the south. He has been at the school for twelve years and says that he will be there twelve more if the Lord is willing.

The greatest blow that he has had lately was when Red Hill left school to get married. Mr. Allen went around like he was lost. Red had been at Tech almost as long as Mr. Allen and they had fought through that famous 1907 season together and things didn't seem just exactly right without Hill to talk to. Most of the "old heads" have passed, but Mr. Allen is still on hand. He plays second base on the regular line up that watches and has watched Tech football and baseball teams practice for the past ten years. The "regulas" are composed of members of the faculty who take a direct interest in the team and three or four men on the outside who are down on the flats every week to see the fortunes of the gold and white go up or down.

HOT HITTING AT VALDOSTA

VALDOSTA, Ga., May 17.—By all-round superior ball playing Valdosta defeated Brunswick 11 to 1. Valdosta batted Walker out of the box in the fourth. Wiggins succeeded him, but fared little better. Elrod worked for Valdosta and pitched a nice game, especially in the pinches.

The game was featured by Pierre's tripple in the fourth, cleaning the bases; Walker's catch of a long drive to right center, and the hit-and-run game worked by Valdosta. Valdosta stole seven bases.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Valdosta .. .. .. 004 803—01x—11 9 0
Brunswick . . . . 000 001 000— 1 10 2

Batteries — Valdosta, Elrod and Pierre; Brunswick, Walker, Wiggins and Geeslin.

Vanderbilt Wins Game

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 17.—In a very slow game, Vanderbilt yesterday beat Mississippi A. & M. in the first game o fthe series. The batting was heavy on both sides. Lyle and Morgan got home runs for Vanderbilt.

Mississippi .. .. .. 010 030 102—10 10 4

Threw First Curve Ball

NEW YORK, May 17.—Statisticians of athletics at Princeton university have entered a claim for J. M. Mann, '76, as the discoverer of the art of curve pitching. According to baseball lore available at Princeton, Mann was the star pitcher of the college team known as the Nassau nine at that time.

During the fall of 1874 Mann pitched several games in one week, and his peculiar delivery wore the skin from the tips of his fingers. In the final contest of the week he was obliged to play third base. Late in the game he was forced to relieve the pitcher in order to save the game. Owing to the tender condition of his fingers, he was obliged to throw the ball with little or no grip.

He immediately noticed that his delivery was breaking in an odd manner, which caused opposing batters to strike out. During the winter months he continued to experiment, and in the spring blossomed out as a pitcher with a real outcurve at his command.

No Tournament For Onwentsia Club

CHICAGO, May 17.—For the first time in 18 years the Onwentsia club will not hold its annual invitation golf tournament, the announcement today putting one of the western classic out of existence, temporarily at least. Lack of interest in tournaments is given as the reason.

Polo Ponies Arrive

NEW YORK, May 16.—Forty-four polo ponies, which will be ridden by members of the English team in the international matches with the American four on the field at Meadow Brook, Long Island, in June, arrived last night aboard the steamer Minneapolis from London. The ponies will be quartered at the Piping Rock Country club, where the English team will practice.

Severoid Is Sold

BOSTON, May 17.—The sale of Catcher Severoid, of the Cincinnati Nationals, to the Louisville club of the American association, was announced here last night. Severoid will join Louisville immediately.

Surprises Come Fast In the Emory Games

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

OXFORD, Ga., May 17.—Emory's interclass baseball race has livened up as the end of the season draws nearer. Very unexpected results in the games have made it impossible to figure out the likely winners, as three teams are bunched, so either might cop the rag. Several postponed games remained to be played which are expected to help hope and bring out the probable winners more conspicuously.

The freshmen are leading the race with .711 percentage, and were going fast until their last game when the juniors, who are holding down the cellar, beat them.

The sophomores are next with .666, and showing up better than in the early part of the season. The seniors have .400 per cent, but their hopes are high, as Perryman of the New York Giants, is doing the dinging and is expected to hold things down.

With Hill as Manager, LaGrange Expects Results

LAGRANGE, Ga., May 17.—With Obediah Hill an manager of the atem, the LaGrange fans are jubilant, and believe that s soon as he gets thoroughly acquainted with the boys of the team that he will round them up into an almost invincible bunch of bal lplayers.

The work of Roberts, who pitched Saturday's game against Talladega, is attracting much attention. He struck out thirteen men, and had it not been for two errors would have probably struck out fifteen and had only two hits against him. Robinson, the left handed pitcher, who pitched the Friday game, allowed only twenty-eight men to face him in nine innings. In only one inning did more than three men come up to bat, in addition to his fine twirling he showed a fine knowledge of the game and kept his eye on all the men, placing them by signals where he wanted toem before throwing a ball. He is a favorite with the boys on the team.

In the securing of Obediah Hill as manager, the LaGrange spirit is immediately manifest, as Mr. Hill is not only related to one of the finest families of the state and a young man of sterling character and fine business ability, but has a baseball record which is unsullied.

Sane Fourth For New York

NEW YORK, May 17.—City and amateur athletic union officials are planning another safe and sane celebration for Independence day. It is proposed to hold athletic games at all the forty-two public parks, athletic fields, playgrounds, recreation piers and baths, as was done on July 4, 1912. Admission will be free, and no entry fee will be charged competitors.

In the games held last year more than 30,000 school boys, colleges and club athletes competed in 187 events, for which 1,492 gold, silver and bronze medals were awarded. The total expense amounted to only a trifle more than $6,500, of which $5,000 was given by the city and the balance by private contributors.

Ramsdell to Coach Texas

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17.—Fred L. Ramsdell, the former University of Pennsylvania sprinter and football player, planned to leave here today for San Antonio, where he will assume the duties of director of athletics at the University of Texas. He first started in athletics at the latter institution and made a reputation as a runner there before coming to Pennsylvania. He has made two trips abroad and won the English sprint championship twice in succession.

Since leaving Pennsylvania Ramsdell has beene connected with the Carnegie Technical school at Pittsburg.

SHAFER EXPECTED TO GO BACK HOME

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 17.—Relatives of Arthur Shafer of the New York National league team were not surprised when they learned that he was missing yesterday and was probably on his way home to Los Angeles. All of his recent letters they said contained references to an early departure for home and a "resumption of his activities as an automobile salesman.

Another Congress

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, May 17.—The countess of the international Olympic committee found the exchange of ideas on sporting psychology and sporting physiology so instructive that the members decided today to hold another congress in Paris next spring. The congress then adjourned.

R. F. MADDOX, BACK FROM EAST, TALKS OF OUTLOOK

Seaboard, He Says, Will Need New Freight Terminals—Business Conditions

R. F. Maddox is back in Atlanta from a trip to the east, and on his arrival he had some interesting things to say about the plans of the Seaboard Air Line and general business conditions.

The Seaboard, Mr. Maddox said, is now in excellent shape, and is earning about 6 per cent on the preferred stock. The situation is so good that the directors authorized an expenditure of $3,-000,000 for various improvements and additional equipment in the way of locomotives and cars.

Asked what Atlanta would get in the way of improvements, Mr. Maddox said that the road was not yet prepared to announce. He said, however, that it would be on the lookout for new freight terminals, although it would take some time to decide on a location, since the move would mean a big expenditure of money.

At present the road holds a joint lease with the W. & A. of the state's property in the rear of the Austell building, but this lease has only six or seven years more to run, and the road needs more room than it now has.

As to the union depot situation, Mr. Maddox said that the Seaboard would wait until it learned what lease disposition the state intended to make of that property.

In New York Mr. Maddox attended the dinner of the trust company section of the American Bankers' association, and he talked with the leading financial men of the country on the general situation.

"The feeling they had was that the underlying condition was good and that the country was in fine shape," Mr. Maddox said. "Crops are in excellent shape. Bankers can see no danger ahead.

"No pronounced business revival, however, is expected for several months. The country is marking time, waiting an various developments. The tariff, of course, will affect certain industries, more in the east than in the south. There will have to be more or less adjustment.

"Still, tariff reduction is a certainty and has been discounted to a large extent. The European situation is improving. We will soon enjoy the benefit of big crops. Next fall should see the country in fine shape."

VALUE OF INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION EMPHASIZED

Dr. Warren H. Wilson, head of the department of church and country life of the Presbyterian church, of New York City, delivered the principal address at the annual commencement exercises of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial Institute. He discussed the value and importance of industrial education.

Rev. Richard D. Stimson, principal of the institute, stressed the need for additional quarters for girls and women and for class room work. He announced that he would leave shortly for the east, where he would endeavor to raise funds fora new dormitory building.

Graduation certificates were awarded to one student from the normal training department, two from the plain sewing department and two from the eighth grade. One hundred and eighty-seven students were enrolled during the past year. They came from five southern states.

Rev. P. G. Simmons, D. D., presiding elder of the A. M. E. church, led in the invocation, the commencement exercises and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. E. Day, of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

WRONG NAME APPEARED UNDER MATRON'S PICTURE

Lines under the picture of two ladies in The Journal Thursday afternoon described them as Miss Francis Almeister and Miss Jessie Blacker, maids of honor for the Joseph E. Brown camp of Confederate veterans which is going to the Chattanooga reunion May 27, 28 and 29.

The name first quoted was incorrect. The lady whose picture appeared with Miss Clack was Mrs. Oscar Weinmeister wife of the well known real estate dealer, who will be honorary matron of honor for the reunion by the veterans who compose the Joseph E. Brown camp.

J. W. M'WHORTER IS MADE A FARM STATION TRUSTEE

Governor Brown Friday afternoon appointed J. W. McWhorter, of Waleinsville, to succeed J. D. Price, of Farmington, on the board of trustees of the Georgia Experiment station. Mr. Price recently resigned when he becomes commissioner of agriculture during the last week in June and by virtue of his office will be an exofficio member of the board.

The Perfect Baby Of The Future

A Simple Method That Has a Wonderful Influence upon The Future Infant.

Too much cannot be said for a wonderful remedy, familiar to many women as Mother's Friend.

It is more eloquent in its action than all the health rules ever laid down for the welfare of expectant mothers. It is an external application that spreads its influence upon all the cords, muscles, ligaments and tendons that nature calls into play; they expand without pain, without strain.

Mother's Friend must, therefore, be considered as a direct influence upon the character and disposition of the future generation. It is a conceded fact that, with nausea, pain, nervousness and dread banished, there is stored up such an abundance of healthy energy as to bring into being the highest ideals of those who fondly theorize on the rules that insure the coming of the perfect baby.

Mother's Friend can be had of any druggist at $1.00 a bottle. It is prepared by Bradfield Regulator Co., 239 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write them for an instructive book to expectant mothers.

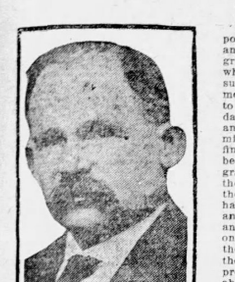
POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

The Importance of Green Food in the Successful Keeping of Poultry



I DO not believe enough attention is paid to this particular line connected with the poultry business, but it should be and the sooner we give our young growing chickens a free range where they can get plenty green succulent grass at all times the more profitable will our fowls be to us. This same thing applies to dairy cattle, hogs, and horses, and where you will find a heavy milking herd of cattle you will find that special attention had been paid to the feeding and grazing of the young heifers as they are being brought up. With the many great opportunities we have in this country for growing an abundance of grasses, clover and alfalfa it is no trouble for one to have a good range to raise their young chickens on, or if they haven't this it is easy to provide a small patch where an abundance of this green succulent food can be had every day and fed continually to both the old and young chickens. The successful growing of alfalfa all over Georgia will eventually make this a great poultry and live stock state, as it is undoubtedly the greatest and cheapest food that up to the present time has ever been produced. At present I have had occasion to not only reduce my feed bill nearly one-half but am getting far better results than ever before by feeding something I have raised at home largely in a mixture composed of 60 per cent well cured alfalfa leaves which have shattered off of my hay mixed with 15 per cent corn meal, 10 per cent meat scraps and a small amount of charcoal and salt added to this mixture. This is fed in a dry mash and hens love the chickens at all times. It is surprising how they like it and wonderful what an amount of eggs they are producing on this feed, and the best part of it all is the cheapness by which it has been produced, and the saving in dollars and cents it is to me. Alfalfa will eventually revolutionize the cheap keeping of poultry to a large extent the feed proposition and no feed produced gives better results. Its feeding value analyzes high and it contains all the necessary elements to produce eggs and develop the young chicks. An abundance of rough food similar to this mixture keeps the hens from becoming fat. However it satisfies their appetites and finishes them with sufficient food to produce a wonderful lot of eggs on.

The poultry people of this country will have to eventually raise a large per cent of their feed, and the farmer who is so admirably situated and can so easily do this is the man who can convert his time and crops into cash through his poultry and get two profits where he is now getting one. The sooner people realize that they can raise their feed so cheaply in this section that much sooner will we keep more poultry, but the great trouble is we put off doing these things year by year which is a big mistake. We should even in a small way keep on trying until we find out how to overcome. There has much knowledge been gained in the keeping of poultry recently and we are yet in our infancy, but the experience of others is fast teaching us every day how to be more successful and how to economize and get better results from our fowls, and we must make a business of these undertakings and be a merchant or a manufacturer does in his lines. It is the only way we can accomplish results, and the work now being done at the National Egg Laying contest is opening the eyes of the people in the poultry world and is not only learning us how to feed and the importance of same but is proving to the outside world what results we have never heretofore thought could be obtained through the hen, especially where she has been properly bred and properly raised for these great results, and I am thoroughly convinced that as much depends on the way young chickens are raised as to their future usefulness as layers. Breeding that is behind them. Plenty green food will develop in young chickens and animals a constitution capable of converting food when they are matured into profitable egg production.

Yours very truly.

WHOLE FAMILY ELOPED, BOOKKEEPER CHARGES

Barwick Has Mother-in-Law and John D. Mattiford Indicted

John A. Barwick, a bookkeeper at the Exposition Cotton mills, secured an indictment when he appeared before the Fulton county grand jury Friday, of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Annie Laurie Jeter, and of John D. Mattiford, whom he charges with eloping with his whole family.

The indictment charges that Mrs. Jeter and Mattiford kidnaped Barwick's two children, Dorothy, aged nine years, and John A. Barwick, Jr., aged five years.

Mrs. Bertha Evelyn Barwick, who is only twenty-three years of age, is said to be in the east with Mattiford. Mrs. Jeter and the children. Mattiford is expected to return to Georgia without requisition papers and to face the charges against him.

The arrest of both Mrs. Jeter and Mattiford, who formerly held an important position here, has been ordered, and the bonds have been fixed at $2,000 each.

Barwick brought warrants in a justice court more than a month ago against Mattiford, and the news of the alleged elopement first became public.

Aviator Rosillo in Flight to Havanna Wins $10,000 Prize

KEY WEST, Fla., May 17.—The first successful flight from the United States to Cuba over the Gulf of Mexico today was made by Domingo Rosillo a Cuban aviator. A prize of $10,000 was offered for the accomplishment of the feat, which unsuccessfully attempted in 1911 by Aviator McCurdy.

Rosillo left the terminal of the Florida East coast railroad in a gale of wind at 7.35 o'clock this morning. His Moisant machine was not equipped with pontoons. This fact, in addition to the unfavorable weather conditions, rendered the flight extremely hazardous.

The aviator skimmed across the intervening stretch of water without mishap, arriving at his destination at 4.18 o'clock.

A dramatic incident which threatened to result in the death of Augustine Paris, followed Rosillo's departure on the successful flight. Paris had planned to race with Rosillo in a hydroaeroplane. Unfavorable conditions caused Paris to send a delegation to Rosillo urging him to desist from the flight until conditions were more favorable. The request of the delegation was refused by Rosillo, who had been informed that flying conditions at his destination were ideal.

"I am going to try it or die," Rosillo is quoted as saying.

When informed of Rosillo's determination, Paris threatened to kill himself. His friends finally prevailed upon him to desist. As Rosillo sailed away from the land Paris climbed into his hydroaeroplane which was being tossed about by the waves in the harbor.

Frantic efforts of Paris to ascend from the turbulent waters were fruitless. Two of the base wires of his machine were snapped in two and he was forced to give up the attempt. Upon his return to shore Parla was placed under arrest by local police, charged with attempting to kill himself. Paris is said to have placed a revolver against his temple, when he threatened to kill himself. His friends said to have taken the revolver from him.

"MORMONISM IS SERIOUS MENACE TO AMERICA"

So Declares a Prominent Woman Speaker at Mission Board Meeting

A constitutional amendment and direct federal legislation to stamp out Mormonism in the United States was urged in the address which Mrs. D. F. Mrs. Deifenderfer is a field representative of the International Council for Christian and Patriotic Service, and in this capacity she has taken the fight against Mormonism, known as the Church of the Latter Day Saints, to all parts of the country.

THIS INTERESTS EVERY WOMAN

A family doctor said recently that women come to him thinking that they have female trouble, but when he treats them for their kidneys and bladder they soon recover. This is worth knowing, and also that Foley Kidney Pills are the best and safest medicine for backache, weary, dragged-out feeling, aching joints, irregular kidney and bladder action and nervousness due to kidney troubles. J. WYLIE SMITH TELLS THRILLING STORY OF HIS FLIGHT FROM LAW AND HIS EXPERIENCE AS REBEL

There is no use in two paying the same debt. If there were another to blame—and there is not—I wouldn't tell on him. I wouldn't wreck his life.

"I plan to rest up in jail for a few days. Then I am going to get out on bond, go over the books and papers of the company and show the people of Atlanta that J. Wylie Smith was not a forger or an embezzler. I will prove that he made an honest mistake.

"When my company failed it left me penniless. If I had had ten days more, though, I could have pulled it through. It was time that I lacked. And rather than face bankruptcy proceedings I went away.

MANY THRILLING ESCAPES.

From the time Smith left Atlanta until he came back his life was beset with thrilling escapes, melodramatic adventures and romance.

Richard Harding Davis' "Soldier of Fortune" never underwent, in the brain of that writer, such experiences as J. Wylie Smith went through in real life. For J. Wylie Smith fought for his freedom, which was then dearer to him than his life. On one side was probably prison. On the other was excitement, the smoke of the battle, the bark of cannon. And Smith was born with a taste for war in his veins. He fought because he liked to fight and because if he didn't he would be turned over to the United States government. He paid for protection by working with a gun and he liked the work.

When the Commercial Loan and Discount company failed there was a fusore. Anxious clients sought J. Wylie Smith. But they hunted him in vain. One night he quietly boarded a train and left Atlanta, leaving his wife, his child, his business behind. His dream of an old age in comfort was shattered.

"I was born to be a fighter," he remarked in his cell Friday night. "All my life I harbored an inclination to go to war. In my youth I had been restrained and then I settled down in quiet commercial pursuits. I thought the spark was dead.

"But when I decided to flee I likewise decided to get the excitement I had been hungry for all my life. I went to Mexico. I had a hard time making the goal. There were officers to dodge, the Pinkertons followed. The border was watched. I managed to slip over the lines though and when I did I was safe."

Smith's first job in Mexico was with the Chihuahua Lumber company, in Chihuahua, which lies south of Juarez. He didn't stay there long, though.

"I had to lay low then," he explained Friday night. "I knew the detectives were warm on my trail. I put through a few deals for others, though. I stayed there a month. Then I bought and sold cattle for a Mexican company.

MEETS GENERAL ROJAS.

"All the time the revolutionists were fighting all over the republic. I made up my mind to join the first command that came near. One day they burned a bridge twenty miles north of me. That was enough. I got a horse and rode to their camp. I found it was a wing of General Orozco's army with General Rojas in command. I couldn't talk much Spanish then, but I made signs. General Rojas came out himself to look me over when he learned a "gringo" wanted to become a revolutionist.

"I was accepted. They gave me a gun and assigned me to a place in the ranks. Evidently they were proud of their American private, for they gave me a prominent position at the extreme right of the company. Incidentally, I was usually first in the line of fire, too. General Rojas said he couldn't give me a uniform then or promise me any pay, because the treasury was, as usual, empty. I didn't care. I wanted to fight.

"I didn't tell him how I came to be in Mexico, and he didn't ask. There was a mutual understanding. He knew there was a price on my head, and I knew he knew. Words were unnecessary. There was a sort of an unwritten, unspoken contract that I would not be turned over to the United States as long as I paid for protection by fighting.

"I want to say without any ego that I was a brave soldier. When there was a charge to be made I was generally in front. I was never behind the company. I led the charges. One time I captured a cannon, with five Mexicans, and turned it on the federal troops. They fled. After that I was a hero. There was nothing in the army's scanty commissary that was too good for me.

"The best friends I have ever had was a Mexican corporal, bigger than any other 'greaser' I ever saw. He was always at my side. He was a soothing Spanish word when we were in danger. He could pick me up in his arms and carry me. Once, when a bullet whizzed through my hat so close to my head that it raised a blister on my ear, I would have fallen if his arm had not held me up.

"I thought I had that bullet through the head," said Smith, as he raised up on his elbow in his prison bed. And he exhibited just the crease of a smile.

"That corporal won my first promotion for me. We were charging the federal troops near Chihuahua. There was a river between us. There was nothing to do but wade it right under the nose of the enemy's guns. As we neared the brink of the stream on the double quick that big corporal—I don't know any more of his name than 'Carlos'—picked me up as if I had been a pet cat and lifted me to his shoulder. Then he dashed through the water. From his back I fired two defiant shots at the federal troops. We were among the first to the other side, and led the charge up the river's bank. And he won. It was a complete victory.

"When General Rojas rode by a few minutes later with the satisfaction of victory beaming on his face he called me.

"'Gringo,' he said, 'I am going to recommend you for a captaincy to General Orozco.

"Two weeks after that I had a troop. I was the leader of the best company in the regiment. And I got my first uniform then, too. I still have it," he said, as he proudly lifted one leg up and propped it on the foot -- the little iron bed to better exhibit a pair of leggings. "That's khaki in trousers. "That's the coat under my pillow," he added.

HE PLANNED CAMPAIGNS.

"As a captain I was a success. A few months later they made me a member of the general's staff and I had a hand in the planning of campaigns and battles.

"I think I showed the Mexicans something about war, even if I wasn't a professional soldier. Smith commanded with a smile and a tinge of color in his careworn face.

"I used to get copies of The Journal at Chihuahua and would keep up with things in Atlanta that way. Sometimes I would see my name mentioned, and know that the chase continued. But I felt safe.

"I want to state this as a fact: I never saw a Pinkerton but once while I was in Mexico. That was in Juarez when I lay in the hospital with a bullet through my thigh. The detective came in and saw me. And he was a good entertainer, let me tell you. When the Mexicans brought in a meal he said: 'Do you have to eat that stuff? Wait! I'll get you something good.'

"He went over to a restaurant and ordered three meals a day for me.

"That detective used to call at the hospital three times a day. I guess he wanted to get on the good side of me, so I would cross the bridge to El Paso and return to Atlanta under arrest. When he failed in that he tried trickery.

"He went to General Orosco and offered him $500 to drive me over into El Paso. General Orosco, although he needed money badly, wouldn't agree to the proposition. I was too valuable a man, you see. The Mexican warrior gave that detective just five minutes to leave Juarez. And the sleuth left in four," commented Smith.

HIS ONE ENEMY.

Concluding his tale, Smith said: "I've just one enemy in the world. That is a German gunner in the insurgent army, who found out I was wanted and 'squealed.' That was when I was a private in the ranks. They put me in jail a little while, but I got out. He is the only man I harbor animosity against. I hold a grudge against no one here.

"Several of my friends have been up to see me. I'll say this, though, the men from whom I have a right to expect the most have shown me the least attention.

fident that the necessary amount will be contributed.

Should the investigator who is now on the job secure conclusive evidence as to Mary Phagan's slayer Mr. Felder states that Mr. Burns' personal presence will not be necessitated and this will reduce the cost of the probe. Then, he says, any surplus will be prorated among the subscribers.

Attorney Felder declares that the Mary Phagan murder mystery will be solved within a month.

"Am absolutely confident of success," says Mr. Felder. "Burns has never yet made a failure on an important case, and I believe he can clear this perplexing mystery."

Mr. Felder states that he has had a number of telephone calls from gentlemen who will subscribe to the fund and he urges additional subscriptions.

Three Atlanta newspapers have given $100 each to the Burns fund, and among the other subscribers are Joseph Hirsch, Homer George, manager of the Atlanta theatre; William Lowenstein and Charley Jones.

The great interest in the efforts to solve the mystery of Mary Phagan's death is shown by the fact that Mr. Felder already has received a number of subscriptions to the fund from people living outside of Atlanta.

Among these subscribers are J. B. Exum, of Douglas; G. L. Fambrough, J. J. Baldwin, B. J. Reed, B. F. Walker, and T. W. Whitfield of Smyrna, Ga.

Mr. Felder states he is withholding the names of the other subscribers at their request. Unless the donor authorizes it, no names will be given for publication, he says.

Mr. Felder expects a number of city organizations to assist in subscribing the total fund necessary for the Burns investigation. Representatives of the Produce Men's association, of the real estate dealers and of the automobile dealers, he said, have already offered to co-operate with him.

OUTLAW UNION SENDS PROTEST ON MR. PAGE

National Bookbinders, Expelled From International Union, Objects to Ambassador

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, May 17.—The resolution of protest against the nomination of Walter H. Page as United States ambassador to Great Britain was introduced by W. Coffey, a member of the executive committee of London trades council on the strength of a letter written on paper bearing the letterhead of the Allied Trades Council of Greater New York and signed "Charles L. Conway, Secretary of the National Brotherhood of Book Binders."

After describing Walter H. Page as a member of the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., the letter says:

"This concern is bitterly opposed to organized labor. The only department that forced recognition from the union standpoint, was the bookbinders, but they are now on strike, being forced out, as the policy of the firm is to replace men with boys."

The letter also says that the International Typographical union, local No. 6, continues the firm on the "unfair" list and that the men who had been secured to take the strikers' places rebelled and struck without the aid of any organization.

The letter concludes by asking all "the organized labor of the United Kingdom to assist us in giving this matter the widest publicity, and also to file a protest to our government on its selection and a protest to your own government for its acceptance of this man."

& Co., the letter says:

Organization Repudiated By American Labor

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, May 17.—The National Brotherhood of Book Binders is an "outlaw organization," expelled two years ago from the International Brotherhood of Book Binders, according to Peter J. Brady, secretary of the Allied Printing Trades council of Greater New York. It has been repudiated, he said, by the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Brady announced today that he proposed to write letters to President Wilson and Ambassador Page, explaining that Conway's communication was unauthorized either by the Printing Trades Council or by the International Brotherhood of Book Binders.

"The use by Conway of the letterhead of the Allied Printing Trades council was entirely unauthorized as was his use of the name of the International Typographical union, local No. 6," said Brady.

Appeals to Pickpockets Not to Rob Delegates

Delegates Can't Afford It, and, Besides, the Cause of Prison Reform Suffers

George W. Crabtree, a prison reformer has addressed an open letter to the "grafters and pickpockets of Atlanta." In that letter he reproaches these evildoers for preying on delegates to the Presbyterian assemblies now in session here.

Mr. Crabtree says that he himself and these delegates are doing all they can to bring about prison reform, and that pickpockets who rob them here are stinging the hand of their benefactors. He adds that this is not only true, but that the action hurts the poor fellows now doing terms in the prisons. Mr. Crabtree's letter follows:

"The Presbyterian assemblies, now convening in this city, together with myself, are doing all in their power to help prison conditions, trying to get legislation for the unfortunate prisoners now doing time in the penal institutions of the United States.

"Some of you (pickpockets) have been preying on these kind, good men. One poor old gentleman was relieved of $300. He cannot afford to lose this money. Be men and send it back. You are not only hurting yourselves but hurting the poor fellows doing life terms in the prisons. Do not sting the hand of your benefactor and God will be merciful to you."

Mexicans, Indians, Cubans and Other Foreign Speakers Address Convention

BY REV. ALEX. W. BEALER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 17.—The people of St. Louis in the neighborhood of the Southern Baptist convention meeting place were thrown into a flutter of excitement at the appearance of a negro giant, as black as they grow. It was rumored that Jack Johnson was in town and many people following him were amazed to see the giant enter the Third Baptist church, where the convention was in session.

It was soon rumored that the pugilist had got religion. It was learned upon inquiry that the black giant was the Southern Baptist convention negro evangelist.

He addressed the convention last night. He said he had been taken for Jack Johnson, his prayer was that God would never disgrace the race with another such character. If he was Johnson, he declared, he would divorce his white wife, come south, get religion and live a decent life.

A great audience was held spellbound while the home board workers presented a number of Indians, Cubans, Mexicans and Frenchmen to tell about their work. Rev. Felix Buldin, now a Baptist missionary to the Mexicans, in Texas, a native Spaniard, who was educated for the priesthood, spoke through an interpreter, saying that Rome feared no one but those who opposed her with an open Bible.

J. B. Silva, a Cuban preacher from Ybor City, said in Spanish as he reached out his arms toward the congregation, "A Cuban does not address his brethren; he embraces them."

David Gillingham, a full-blooded Indian, spoke to the convention. He said he was glad to be there but he had no time to speak. A motion was made to give him five minutes. He repeated, "I'm glad to see," and then turning to the president he said, "that's all I can say."

"Must I stand here before all these people for five minutes?" S. O. Oliver and L. O. F. Coaty, of Louisiana, stirred the convention mightily as they told about the religious destitution in that state.

There were 600,000 Creoles who had never had the gospel preached to them. The official figures show that there are 1,351 delegates attending the convention, and 864 visitors present at this convention, making it the largest ever held beyond the Mississippi.

INTERNATIONAL LESSONS ARE ABANDONED.

The Southern Baptist convention, by an overwhelming vote today, decided to abandon in their Sunday schools lessons prepared by the interdenominational committee, known as the international series, and to substitute instead lessons prepared especially for baptist Sunday schools.

While the action is not binding on individual churches throughout the south, that henceforth will be urged by the Sunday school board for use in the Baptist churches throughout the south will be those especially prepared with the view of setting forth Baptist doctrine.

The action of the convention was on a memorial presented by Rev. S. E. Tull, of Paducah, Ky. The change was favored in the report by a special committee appointed a year ago.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

With routine work of the southern Baptist convention, delegates gave a part of today to social entertainment.

The Sunday school board of the church had the right-of-way at the meeting of the convention.

The convention heard extended addresses upon the memorial offered by ev. S. E. Tull, of Paducah, Ky., to replace the international system of Sunday school lessons with a system prepared altogether under auspices of the Baptist denomination. A committee reporting on the matter suggested in the Tull memorial, and a number of changes had been made in the international lessons which the committee believed would be beneficial to Baptist Sunday schools.

"We deem it highly important for all our Sunday school teachers and officers to pursue the course of instruction provided by our own Sunday school board, because no non-denominational or undenominational agency can provide the instruction best adapted to the development of efficient workers in the Sunday schools," said the report.

"If we don't train our own people in our distinctive doctrines and inspire in them our spirit and ideals, it will never be done, and Baptists will be the weaker and the fewer, and the world poorer through our serious delinquency."

COUNTY BUYS ASPHALT 30 PER CENT CHEAPER

—SHELBY SMITH.

Purchase Price Much Less Than in 1912, Says Mr. Smith

Editor The Journal:

Replying to an article in yesterday's Journal:

"Fulton county is buying its asphalt at least 10 to 30 per cent cheaper this year than did the committee of 1912, of which Commissioner Waters was chairman. In 1912 the county paid $23.60 for Texaco asphalt. This year we are paying $21.75. In 1912 Mr. Waters' committee paid $38.40 for Trinidad. This year we are paying $27.80, laid down in Atlanta. The only Bermudas brought this year cost the county $35 per ton here, and deducting the freight of about $7 per ton from Maurer, N. J., our price is only 50 cents per ton higher than the one Mr. Waters says was given the Eastern Paving company, of Philadelphia. We got bids from every material company that bid when the city ran a series of advertisements, except the Standard Oil company, and as we had 980 tons of this particular material on hand and unused, bought by Mr. Waters' committee in 1912, our committee this year felt we had enough of this company's material; in fact, no two materials that we will buy this year will amount to so much as this. It may be that we may get lower prices yet; in fact, with an asphalt expert on the job here who has had years of experience in drawing specifications, testing and laying similar pavements and who is in touch with market prices, I believe we will get better prices, as well as better materials.

"There is one thing that our committee has in mind, and I wish to call the attention of the public, to-wit: It costs the county just as much money in labor, stone, fuel and wear and tear on our equipment to lay a street with cheap asphalt as it does to lay a street with a higher class of asphalt, and the difference of $5 per ton for the asphalt to get a street that will last from five to ten years longer is, in our opinion, well worth the difference.

"We are doing our best to give the public the very best roads and streets possible to put down. Our physical construction is equal to that of any other section of this country, and our defects go into this time is, as we see it, in the material used.

"As soon as our asphalt expert, who has had eight years experience with the city of Baltimore, arrives, we will adopt specifications that will require all materials to be up to the very best standard, and we believe then we will save several times the amount of his salary in knowing what and how to buy.

firmer grip on the fact that she's got the Shrine convention for 1914.

One of the Whitehall street merchants summed things up tersely.

"If these Atlanta Shriners can make us throw a fit like this over Forrest Adair getting home, what'll they do—oh, what'll they do!—when every big Shriner in the country gets here next spring!"

That's the point.

Plans for that have begun already.

Potentate Adair was making them as he rode along Whitehall Saturday. W. M. Camp, superintendent of the Pullman company, had to cut short the end of the parade so he could get to his own office and work on the Pullman program for handling the crowds twelve months hence. Others are working.

of union that action on the proposed union with the southern Presbyterians be postponed until next year.

G. R. Buford, representing the ways and means committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, sent a communication to the assembly declaring that in the case of thirteen-year-old Ollie Taylor "justice has been stabbed for the price of a sensational headline in a local paper."

The communication, he said, was to correct wrong impressions given Thursday in an address by Judge McKenzie Cleland, of Chicago, who cited the Ollie Taylor case as one of the "disgraces" of the present penal system.

The communication recited the history of the case, Mr. Buford saying, "In my opinion a stolen bottle of soda water has been the vehicle by which a court of justice has given the boy, Ollie Taylor, a chance in life."

Conditions on the farm to which the boy has been sent are ideal, said Mr. Buford. There was simply a wrong public impression regarding the case, he said, given by "sensational headlines."

"We stand face to face with the possibility of another dose of poison being administered to men long as such methods are employed," the communication declared.

CHURCH GREETINGS.

Dr. Edward S. Brunner, of the Reformed church, presented the greetings of the church to the United assembly and pledged more fellowship and cooperation among the various assemblies.

Pathetic stories of work among the lepers were told by Miss Bertha D. Johnston, a missionary to India.

Nearly all the lepers in India now are in asylums, she said, and many are Christians.

The moderator read a letter of greetings from J. Campbell White, of the laymen's missionary movement in "every member" campaign which originated in the United Presbyterian church.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE.

Resolutions urging more consideration to the problem of international peace and deploring "the increase of armaments and preparations for war," the assembly adopted the following resolutions by Dr. James A. Woodburn, professor of American history in Indiana university:

"Resolved, that our churches and colleges be urged to give more frequent and more serious consideration to the problem of international peace and arbitration. This assembly officially endorses and adopts as the sentiment of this body the great plea and noble address on The Church's Responsibility for International Peace," presented at the mass meeting on the evening of May 15, 1913, by Hon. J. A. McDonald, of Toronto, Canada.

"We urge the wide circulation of this address, and we urge our ministry to encourage and reflect the sentiment that exists among the people in favor of international arbitration and peace.

"We deplore and oppose the increase of armaments, and we urge our government to pursue a policy both in national and international affairs that will promote such conditions as will secure the relief to the people from the woeful burdens of war and preparations for war.

"In this we urge in the name of the great Prince of Peace."

Mr. McDonald addressed the assembly, sounding an optimistic note on the move for world peace.

Touching on politics, Mr. McDonald said: "It is a mistaken idea that churches should stay out of politics on the contention that it is unclean.

"It is the business of the church," he declared, "to get into politics and make it clean."

BOARD CRITICISED.

The committee on board of publication started a flurry by offering its opinion "that the board of publication has been unbusinesslike in its methods and misleading in its reports."

"The board has also disregarded the action of our general assembly in the purchase of the Christian Instructor," the report went on. "It has violated the command of the general assembly in relation to the price fixed for the Christian union Herald."

The report further charged that the board "has accepted for publication advertisements of a character specifically condemned by the general assembly."

Pages of the minutes on which the instructions of the general assembly could be found were cited after each charge.

Dr. E. M. Milligan, manager of the board, was called to the platform to explain the increase in the mortgage on the publication building from $34,000 to $100,000.

Dr. Milligan admitted that methods "wrong are not criminal" had been in vogue. The increase in the mortgage, he said, resulted from the payment of many thousand dollars of obligations that did not appear in last year's statement. It had been the custom, he said, not to publish the statement of an obligation until money was on hand with which to pay it.

Also, Dr. Milligan stated, some church members had become so hardened as absolutely to ignore statements of indebtedness.

NEED PURCHASING AGENT.

He stated that in the future affairs of the board would be conducted on a thoroughly businesslike basis. Orders from congregations that habitually refused to pay their indebtedness would positively not be honored, he said. Investigations would be made before orders were filled, Dr. Milligan declared, as to whether the credit of those ordering was good. He recommended a purchasing agent for every congregation.

No fault was attached to Dr. Milligan in the report or by the assembly. Dr. Milligan has been manager of the board only since March and it was the sense of the assembly, as freely expressed by the speakers, that Dr. Milligan's work has been above reproach and that he is rapidly placing the board on a better footing.

Dr. Milligan frankly asserted that there were many faults with the board of publications, and that for years the management had been lax.

The report of the committee called attention to a falling off in the circulation of Sabbath school periodicals, saying that many of the congregations used help of other denominations.

"This is not because of any disloyalty to our own publications," the report said, "but because of the feeling that they are not what they should be."

The Denver branch of the board, which cost $5,537.95 last year, was on unsatisfactory basis, the report said.

The report called attention to "the unsatisfactory financial statement as compared with that of last year."

"But in response to the questions," the report said, "the business manager, Dr. E. M. Milligan, informs us that the increased indebtedness is more apparent than real, the showing last year being due to fictitiously inflated values upon antiquated and shop-worn stock."

After noting the increase in the mortgage on the publication committee, the committee urged immediate steps to collect overdue accounts.

MAKE BOARDS INDEPENDENT.

The committee also recommended that the board of trustees of the general assembly be so constituted as to be entirely independent of the board of publication and that the trustees have the right to call for a financial report from and to audit the accounts of he board at any time.

In closing the committee recorded its recognition of the expressed purpose of the board to reorganize its business.

The assembly voted to table the committee's report until the next rgular meeting Monday morning.

S. B. Scott, representing the Confederate veterans of Atlanta, was introduced to the assembly.

"If there are any Sherman veterans here I should like to see them stand up," said Mr. Scott.

Five gray-haired men arose and the assembly cheered.

"I want to shake your hands," said the Confederate veteran, "and to invite you and the rest of the commissioners to meet with us at the capitol Monday night, to let us show you how we love you and how we have forgotten the 'little misunderstanding' we had in the sixties."

The assembly adjourned to attend the reception to the visiting Presbyterians at Agnes Scott college in Decatur.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS GREET MEN WHO FOUGHT WITH SHERMAN

Invitation From Atlanta Camp 159 Extended to Sherman Vets at U. S. A. Assembly Signal for Patriotic Demonstration

An unexpected and thrilling exchange of greetings between a Confederate veteran of Atlanta and union veterans who followed Sherman, through Atlanta marked the opening of Saturday morning's session of the northern assembly.

S. B. Scott, of Atlanta Camp 159, U. C. V., was introduced to the assembly to extend an invitation. He was applauded heartily as he came forward.

"We Confederate veterans of Atlanta Camp 159 will meet next Monday night," said he, "and we want the Sherman veterans in this assembly, if there are any, to meet with us."

The assembly's applause was cut short by the moderator's gavel, who inquired in a loud voice:

"Are there any Sherman veterans here?"

Immediately there rose a dozen or more men, gray-haired, with shining eyes, and the assembly broke into prolonged applause and cheers.

Then, while Veteran Scott stood by the rostrum railing, his face wreathed in a smile, and the Sherman veterans stood in their places, some man jumped up in a chair and started to sing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," in which the assembly joined with full-throated enthusiasm.

When the song was over, Veteran Scott said:

"Be sure to come to the capitol Monday night, gentlemen, and we will show you that we can forgive and forget that little misunderstanding (laughter) which caused the memorable fight around this village fifty years ago."

GAVEL PRESENTED.

Another pleasing incident preliminary to the commencement of routine business was the presentation of a gavel to Moderator Stone by Dr. George A. Beattie, of Atlanta.

It was made at his direction from pieces of wood taken from the old church in South Newburyport, Mass., founded by Georgia Whitfield, and from places in Georgia made historic and sacred by his preaching.

Dr. Beattie made quite an enjoyable speech and was followed by Rev. Allen McD. Patterson, D.D., pastor of the Old South church, who happens to be visiting in Atlanta.

Owing to various contingencies, the docket was not adhered to exactly.

A MILLION NOT ENOUGH.

Instead of hearing the report of the bills and overtures committee first, the assembly heard Dr. John Fox, secretary of the American Bible society, who submitted an appeal for the society to be given a place on the assembly budget. He said the society, with its present funds, can issue only a million Bibles in 1913, whereas a great many more are needed. He closed by asking the prayers of the assembly.

The assembly next heard the report of the committee on religious education.

OPPOSITION AROUSED.

The third recommendation of the report, providing that the board of publication and Sabbath school work be made the assembly's agency for the supervision of religious education within the particular church work, aroused outspoken and determined opposition on the part of the minister s in the assembly.

Rev. A. J. Kerr, Wilkesbarre, Pa., seemed to express their sentiment when he declared, with considerable heat:

"I will not allow any board of committee of the general assembly to supervise my work along this line. I will be glad to have their advice, but my session shall be my supreme authority on the subject."

After considerable discussion as to the proper reference of the recommendation, it was sent to the standing committee on publication and Sabbath school work.

Recommendations 1 and 2 were adopted; recommendation 4 was tabled, and recommendation 5 was withdrawn.

Declaring that it was not necessary for the commissioners to transact their business with such "intensity," Moderator Stone at this juncture ordered a recess of five minutes.

At 12:30 the moderator ruled out of order all further discussion on the Sabbath report, which is given elsewhere in today's paper, and passed to the next item on the docket, which was a brief and interesting account by Rev. Frank Foster of the work being done by the American Tract society. He asked the assembly to put the society on its budget, and a resolution complying with the request and indorsing the society's work was offered immediately following his address, and unanimously adopted.

Eight minutes were allowed Joseph Turner, of the Presbyterian Historic society, Philadelphia, to present some facts concerning the society's work. He solicited 100 life memberships.

After the reading of announcements, the assembly adjourned for the day, there being no afternoon session.

The assembly in the evening will unite with the other assemblies at the auditorium.

Social Suggestion A Barrier in Every School Boy's Path

BOSTON, Mass., May 17.—Social suggestion is usually responsible when boys "go to the bad," in the opinion of Prof. M. V. O'Shea, of Wisconsin university, who addressed the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association last night.

Lessons on the effects of alcohol and tobacco, and sex education would not prevent the development of habits that waste the energy of youth, he said. Boys need protection from suggestions forced upon them.

"It is generally agreed that the chief danger to the boy is that he will give himself up to vice," said Prof. O'Shea. "The impulses that lead him in this direction are the strongest in his being and unfortunately he can hardly turn around in a modern city without an appeal to these impulses.

"These suggestions came in the situations presented in plays, in the songs and the dances and in all the suggestions of the stage. The most potent of all is the appeal made to him on the street by those who make their living thereby."

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES
Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After A Few Doses Are Taken
Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many related ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.
The new discovery, Croxone, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and take out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.
It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered. Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system with bad results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic cases.
You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.—(Advt.)
